TWO MAJOR TRIUMPHS IN DAY GAINED

Italy's Legions March Into Makale With No Resistance Offered

GORRAHEI STORMED
BY NATIVE TROOPS

ROME, Nov. 8 (AP).—Gorrai, "gateway" to Harrar and interior of Ethiopia from Italian Somaliland, was stormed and taken today by native troops of Italy's Southern army.

The fortified post for weeks has been a coveted Italian objective. It commands caravan trails of Southeastern Ethiopia and dominates the water supply of the region.

Its capture was Italy's second major triumph of the day. The Northern army occupied Makale without the firing of a shot, an official communiqué disclosed.

CAPTURE CONFIRMED
Native troops, led by Colonel Maffei, stormed Gorrai, said a dispatch to the Associated Press from Asmara and an official announcement here confirmed its capture. The official bulletin gave no details, merely stating "Our troops have occupied Gorrai, an important and strategic centre."

The Asmara advices said the seizure thrust Ethiopian defenses fifty miles back into the Southern Ethiopian wilderness. The enemy will have to march fifty miles west and north before they can find an adequate water supply, said the dispatches.

At the same time, Gorrai, with its abundant wells, will give Grazia.

ASSASSINATION PLOT ALLEGED

Cuba Officials Say Arrest Thwarted Plan to Kill United States Envoy

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)
HAVANA, Nov. 8.—An unimpeachable source disclosed tonight that a "master plot" to assassinate Jefferson Caffery, United States Ambassador to Cuba, had been thwarted by intelligence operatives of the Cuban army on the eve of its execution.

Reliable sources said army officials were convinced the plot was nipped with the recent arrest of Cesar Villar, leader of the Confederation of Labor.

ANOTHER ENDANGERED
Also scheduled for death, army agents said they learned, was Pepin Rivero, director of the newspaper Diario de la Marina. Twenty-nine men, these sources said, had been sworn to kill Caffery, who was to be the first to go.

The plot was set for November 1, the day after Villar's arrest, it was asserted. Six automobiles were ready to carry the assassins to a point already designated, agents disclosed.

INSPIRED BY RADICALS
Army officials expressed belief the plot was inspired by radicals to provoke United States intervention in Cuba, in the hope of thus starting a revolution. An army sergeant has been serving as the chief of Caffery's bodyguard for months.

The assassination, it was said, was to take place when Caffery left for home from the embassy last Friday.

Italians Ordered to Halt Giving Vent to Anti-Foreign Spite

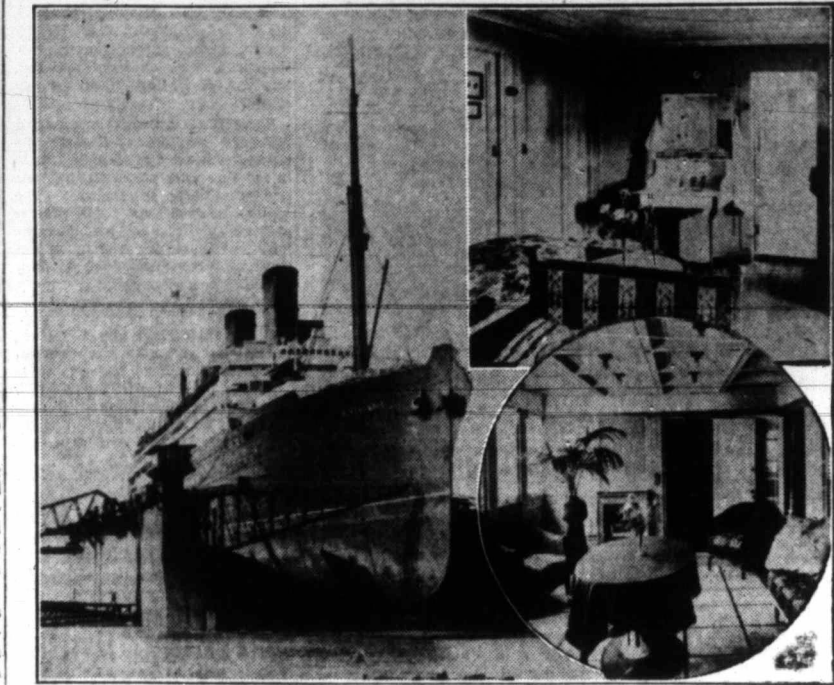

Iron Hand of Fascism Comes Down on Overcharging Storekeepers and Speculators—Many Stores Closed and Merchants Severely Punished

ROME, Nov. 8 (AP).—A reliable source disclosed tonight that the Fascist High Command had ordered anti-foreign demonstrations halted, and said the order reflected progress in peace negotiations between Italy and Great Britain and France.

The desire of Fascist leaders for more restraint in the matter of reprisals against "sanctionist" countries had become apparent since the latest of a series of student demonstrations against foreign shops in Naples last night.

Consequently, word was passed tonight to subalterns that the foreign-

War Office in Tokio Says North China Should Resist Unauthorized Monetary Reform by Force If Necessary—Japan Opposes Any Loan to China by Third Power

TOKIO, Nov. 9 (AP).—A War Office spokesman said today that statements attributed to Major-General Rensuke Isogai, military attaché to the Japanese Embassy in China, in which Isogai was quoted as expressing vigorous opposition to China's monetary reform programme, were made without prior sanction from the War Office, "but as a whole coincide with views of army heads in Tokio."

Japanese press dispatches from Shanghai quoted Isogai as saying the silver programme, including nationalization of that metal, would ruin China's 400,000,000 people.

He urged leaders in North China to resist the efforts of the Nanking Government to centralize silver holdings, the dispatches said, and added that if the Chinese in North China lacked the strength for such resistance, Japan should aid them by force if necessary.

PLANS DENOUNCED
TOKIO, Nov. 8 (CP-Havas).—British plans to organize an international loan to China for purposes of currency stabilization were denounced as "a menace to the peace of the Far East," by a highly-placed officer of the Japanese army, in an interview today with Havas.

Japan must oppose any loan by a third power, he said, and must likewise refuse to participate in any proposed international loan for stabilization purposes.

The nationalization of silver, he said, was certain to meet with the opposition of Provincial Governments, which would prefer separation from Nanking to surrendering their silver. This would be the case not only in the North, but in the South as well, he declared.

FIRE SHOTS THAT KILLED HIS PARTNER

John Pincos on Trial for Murder After Montreal Street Shooting

"LOST CONTROL," HE TELLS ASSIZE JURY

An admission that he fired the shots that killed Clarence N. Pappas, his former partner in business, featured the evidence of John Pincos, on trial for murder in the Assize Court here.

Pincos, in the witness box yesterday, declared he had "lost control of himself" after he shook hands with his partner at the latter's home on Montreal Street. At first, he said, he intended to commit suicide and told Pappas so. Pappas had replied "the sooner the better," and it was then he fired the shots.

The trial, which opened on Thursday morning, will continue at 10 o'clock this morning when counsel will address the jury and Judge H. B. Robertson will deliver his charge. Evidence was concluded late yesterday afternoon, and the jury was locked up for the night.

ACCUSED ON STAND
Pincos went into the witness box yesterday afternoon and told his story.

He did not deny firing the shots that killed his former partner, and contended he had been unfairly treated by Mr. Pappas over a term of years. He testified he had been persuaded by him to set fire to a house for the purpose of collecting insurance which, the accused said, had been collected by Mr. Pappas and retained by him. When the accused asked for his share of the insurance, he said Pappas told him to burn the remainder of the house.

Gale Starts Many Fires At Everett

EVERETT, Wash., Nov. 8 (AP).—A gale from the northwest whipped over Everett tonight, starting twenty-one chimneys and roof fires and one sawmill fire within two hours.

The wind stripped the masts and rigging from one small vessel in the harbor.

All fire equipment in the city fought the fires, but could only answer thirteen of the alarms. Police radio equipment directed the volunteers from one blaze to another. Firemen crews extinguished the other fires.

ROOSEVELT HOPES FOR COMPLETION OF TRADE TREATY

Prime Minister King Calls on U.S. Secretary of State and Visits President—Delegations Reported Near Agreement on Draft Plans For Reciprocal Agreement

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt today gave his blessing to the trade negotiations progressing between Canada and the United States, and expressed the hope a treaty on as broad a basis as possible would be completed at an early date.

Canadian trade matters held the spotlight at the White House press conference this afternoon because of the interest aroused over the presence in Washington of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who went to the White House late this afternoon for an overnight visit.

MEETS CORRESPONDENTS
When President Roosevelt met close to 100 Washington correspondents in the executive mansion this afternoon he had not yet talked to Mr. King, but he had discussed the proposed treaty with Secretary Hull and other State Department officials during the morning.

Mr. Roosevelt said there had been a long list of commodities thrown upon the conference table where Canadian and United States experts have been struggling since last Monday to reach a treaty basis, but he was not prepared to discuss the negotiations in any detail.

DEATH TOLL IS DOUBLED

Belated Reports Come of Eleven Drowned Through Bahamas Hurricane

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 8 (AP).—The toll of a devastating Autumn hurricane which swept the Northern Bahamas and Southern Florida mounted to nineteen today with belated reports of eleven persons drowned in Great Abaco Island.

Commissioner J. E. Russell, representative of the Colonial Government, was among those listed as victims of the hurricane which struck Great Abaco last Sunday.

The island commissioner, engaged in distributing relief supplies from a sailboat to islanders who suffered in the September 28 hurricane, was knocked into the sea by a sudden swing of the ship's boom.

BODY RECOVERED

The Colonial Government announced that his body had been found four miles inland from the place where he disappeared beneath the raging waves. Government House also announced the other ten deaths in Abaco's scattered settlements.

The storm which lashed Miami, causing five deaths in that area and property damage estimated at $3,000,000, moved into the Gulf of Mexico and was located off the West Florida coast today, most of its strength spent.

The sponge-fishing fleet at Great Abaco was reported to have suffered heavily with five vessels destroyed and three others badly damaged.

M'GEER GAINS IN VOTE COUNT

Liberal Candidate Adds Two While Webster Drops Five In Early Checking

VANCOUVER, Nov. 8 (AP).—Twelve ballots which were not initially by deputy returning officers were put to one side, for further consideration during recount today of the votes cast in Vancouver-Burrard in the general elections, October 14.

The deputies will be summoned to explain these ballots.

The majority of them were stated to be for Arnold Webster, C.C.F., who was given a majority of four votes over G. G. McGeer, Liberal, in the original official count.

Aside from these ballots Mr. McGeer made a net gain of two votes in the counting today of twenty-nine of the 173 ballot boxes. Mr. Webster had a net loss of five.

The judicial recount, applied for on behalf of Mr. McGeer, is proceeding daily before County Court Judge J. N. Ellis.

Famous Aviator and Co-Pilot Tom Pethybridge Long Overdue at Singapore in Course of Speed Dash From England to Australia—Last Seen Over Bay of Bengal

Royal Air Force Planes Search Without Success

SINGAPORE, Nov. 9 (CP).—Two Royal Air Force flying boats returned today from a dawn flight over the Bay of Bengal and Coastal Jungle Islands to report they had found no trace of Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, missing for thirty-six hours on a record flight from England to Australia.

C. James Melrose, the airman who last saw the famous Australian flyer over the Bay of Bengal, joined the search. Taking off, Melrose said he would follow Kingsford-Smith's route over the Bay of Bengal and would fly low over the water.

A squadron of bombing planes was standing by, ready to join the search.

SEEN BATTLING MONSOON

The celebrated Australian aviator was last seen battling a monsoon over the Bay of Bengal and grave fears were held for his safety. He left Allahabad at 6:25 p.m., Thursday, and should have reached here yesterday. Accompanying him as co-pilot was Tom Pethybridge, another Australian.

The Royal Air Force headquarters here issued an SOS, asking all shipping in the vicinity where Sir Charles was last reported to keep a lookout.

No Decrease in Army of Hoboes

CHICAGO, Nov. 8 (AP).—Those who thought the "hobo" might be diminishing in these days of general motor travel got a jolt today in a report submitted to the Association of American Railroads.

Last Summer 616,000 trespassers were ejected from trains and premises of sixty-five of the largest class one roads alone.

SIGNS OF MOTOR TROUBLE

James Melrose, young Australian airman who also is flying from England to Australia, on arrival here said he saw what appeared to be flames from the exhaust of Sir Charles' plane as the Lady Southern Cross overtook him 150 miles from land over the Bay of Bengal. It was feared that Sir Charles and Pethybridge had been forced down somewhere between Rangoon and Victoria Point, Burma.

Melrose, who left England last Saturday on a leisurely flight to Australia, decided to delay his journey in order to aid in the search for Kingsford-Smith.

Meanwhile, H. F. Broadbent, who took off at the same time as Melrose from England for Australia, flew over Singapore at 8:42 p.m. (7:42 a.m., C.S.T.) en route for Batavia, Java.

As soon as news that Sir Charles was last reported to keep a lookout.

LONG-LOST SON WRITES HOME

Vancouver Boy Disappeared Three Years Ago—Was Feared Drowned

VANCOUVER, Nov. 8 (AP).—McKelvie Smilie, fifteen, walked out of his home here on the morning of September 3, 1932, to go swimming in the Fraser River and never returned. All but his mother, Mrs. R. M. Smilie, believed him drowned and her faith was justified today, when she received a letter from him in Toronto.

"I'm not writing now because I'm out of work—I've been that way ever since I left home—but I had a dream about you," McKelvie wrote. "I dreamed I heard you calling me. That was a week ago, and I haven't been able to sleep since."

McKelvie was aged fifteen and attending high school when he disappeared. His father, a prospector, is at present in Northern British Columbia.

Mrs. Smilie said she recognized her son's scrawly writing when she opened the letter. She added that a ticket and sufficient expense money for the boy to return home had been wired to him.

Winter Back After Short Mild Period

QUESNEL, B.C., Nov. 8 (AP).—Winter conditions prevailed in the Cariboo today following four days of mild weather and heavy rains. Snow started falling this morning and is continuing, driven before a breeze from the North. Impressive Appeal Made by Baldwin in Campaign Broadcast

Prime Minister Says Democracy On Trial in Coming Elections in Great Britain, With Whole World Watching the Outcome

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP).—Prime Minister Baldwin in a broadcast speech from Chequers tonight, delivered an impressive appeal for the return to power of the National Government.

He pointed to the Government's record and its intentions in domestic and foreign fields, and declared the future welfare of the country was all that really mattered in the election campaign.

"The whole world is watching the election, because democracy therein is on trial," he said. "It is our duty to show the world that democracy in Britain can pursue a constant course and be as resolute in will as any dictatorship."

Speaking with emotion, Mr. Baldwin concluded: "If you give me this confidence now, I will give you all that is in me during the few years that now can only remain to me at my present age." (The Prime Minister is sixty-eight.)

Mr. Baldwin, replying to criticism, said he was not a dictator.

Premier Pattullo Outlines Aims of His Administration

Revision of Fiscal Relations With Ottawa, Creation
Of Trade Board, and Postponement of Beer and Wines Decision Touched On in Address

AFTER canvassing the political history of British Columbia since the turn of the twentieth century, Premier Pattullo announced in his broadcast speech last evening that he would press for revision of the financial relation of the Province with Ottawa, advocate creation of a permanent board to examine trade and transportation problems, and implied that he would submit the question of light wines and beer in restaurants to the Liberal caucus when it assembles next year.

The Premier referred to "vitriolic opposition" at one point. "I seem able to arouse some vitriolic opposition but there are a lot of people who like neither vitriol nor vandalism. They want a government that will submit to neither and that is what they have."

"SNIPERS" "The Administration which I lead is open to reasonable suggestion from any quarter, but is not to be diverted from its objectives by the political snipers who operate from the ambush of tolerated licence. Your who believe the sale and consumption of liquor to be immoral.

OPINION DIFFERS "I have stated that I personally am in favor of the sale of beer and wine with meals in standard hotels and restaurants. Not all members of the House think likewise. Upon such a question as liquor, where views are strongly held upon moral grounds, I do not think it would be right or fitting that I should place members in the position of accepting my views or facing dissolution. "When the members assemble at the approaching session of the Legislature, this question will be given consideration," the Premier said.

The Premier touched on the principles of self-reliance, as opposed to over-dependence on the state. He advocated military training for young men in the naval, army and air forces of Canada. He said that the present system of relief should be discarded, and representations to that end would be made at Ottawa shortly.

SEEK REVIEW The Premier, continued the Premier, had suffered under artificial handicaps since Confederation, in inequitable treatment in the division of revenues, the implication of tariffs and freights, and in other ways. A revision of the whole issue would be sought.

Half of the address was devoted to a review of British Columbia conditions and forms of government since 1903, cited to support the Premier's ultimate contention—that there should be no reversion to non-parliamentary forms of administration.

The Premier spoke from his office here over a network of eight British Columbia stations, commencing at 6:30 p.m. He closed with the assurance that there was no slightest-of-hand in government, but many pressing problems to be carefully worked out.

ARE ENTHUSED OVER RESULTS

Chamber of Commerce One-Day Membership Campaign Pleases Officials

Although no official figures were available at the close of the one-day membership campaign conducted yesterday by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, President W. T. Straith and Fred M. McGregor, chairman of the committee in charge, were enthusiastic over the results.

Reports of canvassers will be made at a meeting on Tuesday. From morning until late last night, forty-odd members of the chamber contacted approximately 300 prospects, inducing many to join the senior business organization of the city. Many businessmen of Victoria, who formerly held memberships, rejoined. The day began with a breakfast meeting at the Empress Hotel, after which the members commenced their canvass of 25 general memberships, 15 special memberships, and 10 junior or commercial memberships.

FIRED SHOTS THAT KILLED PARTNER

on which there was $500 insurance, and he might then retain the property.

OUT ON THE STREET Pincos said he refused to go through with any further burning and could not raise the necessary money to pay off an amount then claimed by Pappas. Pappas, he said, tried to sell the place and "throw me out on the street."

Pincos told the court that, in desperation, he had decided to take his own life. He said he made a last appeal to Pappas the night of the killing, and when his former partner refused to talk to him at the cafe he got into an auto and went home with him.

In front of the home on Montreal Street the prisoner said he made an appeal for consideration and asked not be turned out of his place in Esquimalt, where he operated a hot-dog stand. Pappas, he said, refused and said he had to have money and had found a buyer for the place.

Pincos told the jury he shook hands with Pappas as they were about to part and then told Pappas he was going to shoot himself.

LOST SELF-CONTROL When Pappas replied, "The quicker the better," Pincos said he lost control of himself and shot his companion as he turned to go into the house.

"I do not know how many shots I fired," the accused said in reply to a question by his counsel, H. W. Davy.

"I had no idea of shooting Pappas when I went out there. I took the gun with the sole idea of shooting myself," said Pincos.

After firing the shots, Pincos continued, he ran away. He said he fell down once and lost the ammunition and the gun.

The accused said that he went towards the city and to Esquimalt, and into the woods, laid down and fell asleep. When he awakened he went to the Esquimalt police station and waited for it to open, he said.

Guards on Russo-Rumanian Border

Now that Rumania has fallen into line with other nations in recognizing Soviet Russia, railway communications have been resumed, and it is possible now to travel from Bucharest into the Soviet by the old pre-war direct road. A new bridge has been built over the Dniester River, and opened a few weeks ago. This picture, made at the centre of the new bridge, shows a Rumanian (left) and a Soviet sentry standing side by side.

dence, Mr. Davey said that he would show there was no premeditation on the part of Pincos. He said: "If it was premeditated the accused would never have done what he did in the presence of a witness, the taxi driver. There was no evidence of passion up to the time that the two shook hands."

The trouble between the two men dated back five years, said Mr. Davey. Pincos had lost money in a hot-dog stand at the races at that time.

His partner left him to face the debts alone and he had been unable to pay them. As a consequence there was a judgment against him which had not been pressed, but which left the accused in the position where he was not able to hold property in his own right.

Mr. Davey said he would show that Pappas had offered to buy, with Pincos, property across the street from the original stand. Pappas, because of the outstanding judgment, put the property in his own name. Pincos claimed he had paid his full share of the cost, Mr. Davey told the jury.

In 1933, Pappas, the accused stated, threatened to throw him out unless he set fire to a house on the property. Pincos said he objected and did not want to do it, because he did not want to go to jail. Pappas, he said, told him "to do it without being caught."

SET FIRE TO HOUSE

In order to avoid having to burn the building, Pincos said he got two persons to take the house under rental for a time. When they went out, Pappas told him: "There is no excuse now."

Accused said: "It is against my wish."

"Don't forget the place is in my name," was the reply he got from Pappas. Later, he said, Pappas took him into the house and showed him how to prepare the fire. On September 27, 1933, accused set it on fire, but the place, which carried insurance to the amount of $1,850, was only about half-burned. The damage paid under the insurance was $1,300, said the accused.

REFUSED TO DIVIDE

Later he asked Pappas how he came out on the fire and he said he got $1,300. Pincos testified he asked for a share of the money and Pappas refused and suggested that if he needed money he should burn down the remainder of the building, as there was still $500 insurance.

In June of this year Pappas, accused said, told him he was going to sell the property, and March 27, 1935, he got a letter from a lawyer telling him to vacate the place, as it was being sold.

He said he went to the restaurant and asked Pappas what he meant by the letter, and Pappas then told him he was going to look out for himself, adding: "I need the money."

The accused said he reminded Pappas of the arrangements as partners, but Pappas said he needed money. The accused told the court he had threatened to report to the insurance company and Pappas said to go ahead. Pappas, he said, would not talk to him about the deal when he came to town to see him.

TRIED OUT GUN

Pincos, continuing his evidence, said that after he received the letter evicting him, he decided to commit suicide and had tried the revolver in his house the day before the killing. That, he said, accounted for the bullet hole in a cupboard door, found later by police.

To Carew Martin, Crown counsel, Pincos said Pappas told him: "If you do not burn the house, I will put you on the street."

Accused also said that later, when he asked for part of the money, Pappas said: "If you want money, burn the rest of the house." Accused said his reply to that was: "I would not do so for $1,000,000."

Mr. Martin asked what the accused meant when, in his confession to the police he said: "I shot him, all right. I'm not trying to hide anything. He forced me to do it." Witness said that he meant that Pappas forced him to burn the house.

EXPERT EVIDENCE

Dr. Thomas Miller was called to give expert testimony relating to Pincos. He had examined the accused, who had told him he had had two major operations and scars, located on his body, would correspond with such operations. He had gone into his history and remarked upon the fact that he was looking better now than when he saw him following the arrest. He was a nervous character and suffered from melancholia.

When asked about the firing of the shots and as to whether these were in keeping with a case of melancholia, Dr. Miller said that this was just what made such cases dangerous. It was in keeping with such a state. A sudden realization, on the part of such a person as the accused, that he had been unjustly dealt with, would not be out of keeping with the course followed.

At the forenoon sitting of the court the question of the submission of the confession made by the accused after his arrest was argued before the trial judge with the jury absent from the courtroom.

CONFESSION GIVEN

A decision was reached to allow this to go before the jury, and witnesses were called. Constable G. Stancombe, of the Esquimalt Police, told of finding the accused sitting on the steps of the police station.

When he offered to make a statement the constable warned him and told him to wait until he reached the city lockup.

At the city police station, the constable said, the man was taken into the office of the inspector of detectives, J. A. McLeellan.

C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, testified he had warned the accused, who said he wished to make a statement and did so. The police court stenographer, T. H. Bamford, was present and recorded the proceedings.

Inspector McLeellan testified the accused said, "I shot him alright. He forced me to it."

The court will resume at 10 o'clock this morning.

tive lines, avoiding inflammatory material which might provoke ill feeling against the residents of any nationality.

This new policy, informed sources said, did not mean there would be any slackening in preparations to resist sanctions.

RIGIDLY ENFORCED

"Fascism's iron rule of squelching 'defeatists' who try to profit by war and sanctions was rigidly enforced today."

Scores of stores were closed throughout Italy for over-charging. Frightened persons trying to get their money out of the country have been arrested and "black bourse" money speculators who sell the lira at a heavy discount for foreign money have been jailed.

COMMITTEES ACTIVE

Fascist vigilance committees are active at Rome, Bago, Lucra, Treviso, Pontedera and elsewhere. Forty stores were closed at Pontedera alone, one at Lucra, another at Treviso and thirty-six merchants were punished in various ways at Bari.

Italy was cheered by news of the fall of Makale, and while the Fascist party was preparing the nation's defence against sanctions—reprisals for countries imposing them—Premier Mussolini kept on with preparations for war. He was understood to have chosen General Federico Baldozzini, Under-Secretary of War, as the man to command the whole Italian military force in case of an European war.

CLOSE CO-OPERATION

Close co-operation between II Duce and the Royal Family was shown again by his appointment of the Duke of Pistoja to command the Blackshirt division, named to commemorate the date of the founding of the Fascist party. The Duke of Bergamo, cousin of the King, already is in Eritrea, commanding a brigade of the regular army.

Saanich Welfare Association
Re-elects 1935 Directors
—Drive Is Planned

The 1935 officers of the Saanich Welfare Association were Thursday re-elected to their posts for the ensuing year at the association's annual meeting.

Mrs. Thomas Todd was chosen president; Miss Kathleen Oldfield, first vice-president; Mrs. W. M. Foster, second vice-president; Mrs. William Dealey, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. W. H. Carr, recording secretary.

Reeve William Crouch was named honorary president. During the afternoon Reeve Crouch paid tribute to the fine work which the association was doing in Saanich. The council, he said, appreciated the assistance to the needy given by the ladies. A resolution voicing appreciation of the work done by Mrs. Dealey was also passed.

CHRISTMAS HAMPERS

It was stated that Mrs. Todd was making an effort to secure larger rooms as Christmas hamper headquarters. The drive for funds to fill 400 hampers has already started under the direction of Reeve Crouch. Mrs. F. F. Osborn was appointed general convener for the drive.

Saanich nurses will submit the names of the needy requiring hampers, the same policy as was carried out last year, officials stated. Annual reports were submitted at a previous meeting.

CRITICIZE AND PRAISE ISLAND

Summer Visitors Write interesting Letters to Publicity Bureau Here

Some 5,000 questionnaires were sent out by Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau to persons in the United States who visited Vancouver Island this summer.

Replies are now beginning to come in. Some of these visitors, besides filling out the questionnaire have sent in letters of comment and criticism.

From Seattle a man writes: "You have a billion dollar island, you have everything except tourist comforts. I love Canada. I love Canadians. I am prejudiced in favor of your whole setup, except what is offered in tourist accommodation."

HAS COMPLAINT

A woman resident of the Puget Sound City says: "I think that one of the best cruises I know of is the C.P.R. voyage along the West Coast of the Island. I certainly do not like the form of advertising done at the C.P.R. dock at Victoria with all those taxi, sightseeing and hotel people yelling at one and thrusting pamphlets into one's hand."

An angler in Los Angeles was responsible for the following remarks taken from a lengthy letter: "Put out information where there is fly fishing regardless of size. When I asked the guide at Campbell River where there was fly fishing, he looked at me as though I was queer. We fly fishermen may be funny, yet I paid one of your merchants $65 for a Hardy rod with which to fly-fish."

A charmed visitor from Pennsylvania writes: "Please do not change Victoria at all before we get there again."

RETAIN CHARM

Another Seattle man says: "Earlier in the year I motored from Quebec to Sault Ste. Marie, and I found the publicity and educational work of your publicity bureau very materially assisted in our enjoyment of Victoria.

"I made my first trip to your delightful Island in 1909," writes a Portlander. "Since then I have returned many times and always come away refreshed. Many people in the United States say to me 'How I long to visit Victoria. I hear it is just like a bit of England.' That is the point I should like to stress, that you keep that 'bit of England' idea, for it will draw many tourists. They remark that Vancouver is just like an American city."

From an Oregon resident, the following remarks were received: "My wife and I like Victoria from different points of view. My wife likes it for the gardens and the opportunity to pick up occasionally some worthwhile antique. I like it for the golf and the opportunity to get away from my medical practice, and of being lazy."

EVERGREEN SCENERY
A Los Angeles correspondent says: "We found Victoria delightful to us after the brown hills of California. Your evergreen scenery is good for one's sight."

A disappointed fisherman of Huntington Park, California, writes the following complaint: "I came to Vancouver Island expecting to find sportsmen's canneries, such as we have in California, Oregon and Washington, where anglers can have their fish canned for a small charge. I was either misinformed, or there is none on Vancouver Island. So, I returned to California to spend the rest of my vacation."

Further proof that visitors to Vancouver Island in most cases become boosters is shown in the following statement made by a man from Maxwell, California: "We have talked and praised your city until our friends think us a little daffy. No doubt this daffy advertising will bring you more visitors."

Theatrical Career Blasted or Nasty Scandal? Which?

Carita Hillman was the sweetheart of Morris Manfred, theatrical producer. She was jealous of Carol and the attention Manfred paid to her. Seizing a chance for publicity, Carita threatened Carol with an alienation of affections suit unless Carol gave up her theatrical career. What amazed Carol and disturbed her more than anything else was the fact that Carita knew Carol's secret—that she possessed a fortune of two million dollars. What else could she do except give up the theatre under the circumstances? For the answer read

Prong-Horn Antelope Becoming Menace to Ranchers in Alberta

Animals Once Threatened With Extinction Multiply Into Thousands—Bolder Since Conservation, They Steal Pasture, Loot Haystacks

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Nov. 8 (P.).—Harassed by ever-increasing herds of antelope, fleet-footed roamers of the foothill country, Southern Alberta ranchers were wondering tonight what could be done to save their pastures for cattle and sheep.

The animals, once threatened with extinction, were protected with conservation measures and have multiplied so rapidly that an open season was declared this year, but Royal Canadian Mounted Police reported that no applications for the special licence to hunt them have been received.

The licence, costing $5, allows hunters to bag two of the antelope, present in vast herds across the North American plains from Mexico to the Canadian Prairies when Buffalo held sway in the early part of the century.

EATING UP FODDER

Cattlemen complain that the antelope are eating grass needed for cattle and sheep, besides attacking haystacks. One Wild Horse, Alberta rancher said it cost him the wages of a man and the keep of three hounds in his efforts to drive the animals from his land, where they eat his alfalfa, break into his haystacks and steal the pasture of his cattle herds.

Near Wild Horse in Southeastern

Alberta, a herd of 1,000 antelope was reported, while other large herds were seen within a mile of Coalhurst, a mining town eight miles west of Lethbridge.

Had not conservation measures been taken, it is doubtful whether any of these antelope—the Prong-Horned antelope—would have survived. Protected in 1914 and 1915 by establishment of sanctuaries in Wawaskey and Nemiscan national parks and rigid defence of the few herds which roamed the shortgrass country in Southeastern Alberta, their numbers have increased to thousands.

DROUGHT A FACTOR

Reason for the sudden complaints this year about the animals is attributable indirectly to the series of drought years in Southeastern Alberta. Many farmers have left their lands in the area for the North. For years there have been thousands of the animals in the Cypress Hills, where the Wawaskey and Nemiscan parks are situated. The animals' preference in food is weeds on uncultivated land and, becoming bolder as the farms were deserted, they ventured over the country, gradually working toward the foothills. Working out of the hills where they were never molested by hunters, they gradually became less frightened of humans and generally are bolder than deer.

Invasion of fields and attacks on haystacks recently were caused by snowstorms which covered the deserted farms where they usually graze. At present ranchers' fears are more concerned with what damage the animals will do, than what they have already done.

HAVE AMAZING SPEED

The flesh of the animals is very delectable, which accounted for the protective measures taken. Indians were killing them wholesale before game officials stepped in. No solution has been put forward as to why hunters have not shown more enthusiasm with an open season this year. The antelope are poor targets because of their amazing speed, but hunters can approach much closer to them than they can to deer.

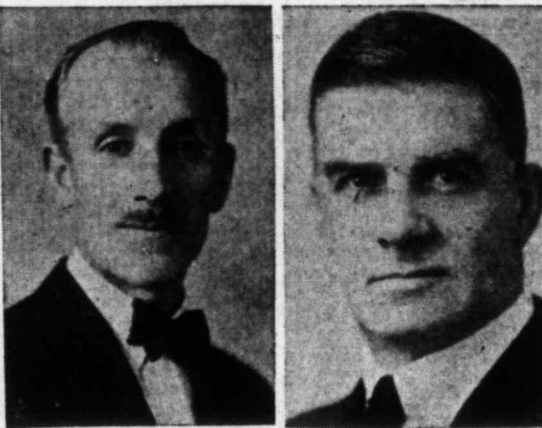

They usually travel in herds of eight, ten or twelve, and the fact that Wild Horse is in their sanctuary district accounts for a herd of 1,000 seen there.

UNIQUE IN CHARACTER

Zoologically, the Prong-Horn is assigned to a special family, of which it is a sole member. It differs from other members of the tribe and from all mammals native to North America. It is the only variety which is never found elsewhere.

The buck has characteristics differing from all other hoofed animals. In that it sheds the outer sheath of its horns, differing from deer, which shed their antlers every year and grow a complete new set.

SITE FOR NEW SCHOOL CHOSEN

Building Committee's Report Accepted by Duncan School Board

DUNCAN Nov. 8.—At Wednesday's meeting of the Duncan Consolidated School Board, the high school building committee reported that arrangements have been made with the Duncan Athletic Club and the Department of Indian Affairs, which would permit the proposed new high school to be built on land now owned by the school board in the vicinity of the junior elementary school, and to make use of land now leased by the Athletic Club from the Indian Department for a playing field. In addition to giving a better site for the new building, a saving of $2,100 would be made, as this amount had been estimated as the cost of purchasing and clearing a site previously under consideration. The committee's report was accepted.

INDICATOR FOR MOUNT TOLMIE

Junior Chamber of Commerce Will Build Direction Device for Summit

For the benefit of tourists climbing or riding to the top of Mount Tolmie, the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, at a general dinner-meeting last night at Speedie's Cafe, decided to erect a direction device to point out the various interesting points to be seen from the summit, including high peaks, mountain ranges, waterways, islands and observatories.

It was felt an immediate start should be made on the project, which the members plan to construct with their own labor. Leslie Osborne, president, who advanced the idea, was asked to take the lead.

MONTHLY BULLETIN

To create greater interest in the Junior Chamber activities, the meeting endorsed a proposal to issue a monthly bulletin. President Osborne, William Findlay, secretary, and the executive, were named to the editorial board.

Members spoke strongly in favor of pressing for the establishment of telephones along the Malahat. The matter will be further discussed at future meetings.

EXCHANGE OF IDEAS

A letter from the Ottawa Junior Board of Trade was read, suggesting the exchange of ideas between the two organizations. Members expressed themselves as in favor of the suggestion and referred the matter to the president and secretary.

Pointing out the increasing interest in technology, Frank Partridge urged that the Junior Chamber of Commerce organize a group to study it. He expressed his willingness to give a brief talk on technology when the Junior Chamber of Commerce holds its next general meeting.

BOY SOPRANO IS WELL RECEIVED

Dean Miller, of North Vancouver, Gives Recital Here, Assisted by String Ensemble

Offering a programme of some of the lighter compositions of noted composers, interspersed with a group of recitations, Master Dean Miller, North Vancouver boy soprano, entertained an audience in Metropolitan United Church Sunday school room last evening.

The programme opened with selections in ensemble by pupils of Mrs. E. S. Foot. In this group were Misses Esther Dicker, Thelma Woolston, piano; Thomas Johnson, Douglas Dicker, D. Anstey, violins, and T. Anstey, cello. The ensemble also entertained with selections during the intermission.

VARIED PROGRAMME

Master Miller's first number was "Total Eclipse" (Handel), which was followed by two numbers, "Serenade" (Schubert) and "Then You'll Remember Me" (Bailie). The next was a violin duet by Mr. Johnson and Mr. Dicker, "The Skater's Boy" and "Food" gave Master Miller an opportunity to demonstrate his ability as an elocutionist. In the next number, a popular duet, "The Singing Lesson" (Squire), Master Miller and his mother, Mrs. Wesley Miller, were generously applauded, and responded with "Smilin' Through."

In the group of three Schubert numbers, "Impatience," "Hedge Roes" and "Hark! Hark! the Lark," Dean was heard to greater advantage and seemed more at home than with any of his other offerings. He closed the programme with a group of four numbers, "Shortnin' Bread" (Wolfe), "Lestie Bateese" (O'Hara), "Carterbury Bells" (Besly) and "Little Boy Blue" (Nevin). Mrs. George H. E. Green was the accompanist for all Dean's numbers.

Radio Programme Is Arranged for Remembrance Day

A SPECIAL Remembrance Day programme will be presented by the Canadian Radio Commission over the network from 6 to 7 o'clock Monday evening, in conjunction with the Canadian Legion.

The programme will embrace contributions from stations at Montreal, Ottawa, Saint John, Toronto, Regina, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver. There will be choir selections, solos, bands, bugle calls and several short addresses.

Local publicity officials point out the largest increase in foreign cars to Victoria is through the port of Nanaimo. These figures do not show in the customs returns. Estimates of the total increase of foreign automobiles to the city indicate that this year's gain will be at least 35 per cent over the twelve months of 1934.

NATURE MOCKS MARKET PLANS

Heavy Frost Damage in Northwest May Bring Potato Shortage

Alarmed by the prospect of root and crop damage that may amount to $2,000,000 throughout British Columbia as a result of sudden frosts, the Provincial Department of Agriculture will today send J. A. Grant, markets official, on a tour of interior points. Mr. Grant's task will be to try to measure the damage.

One immediate result from the sudden frost, which caught root and other crops insecurely left in the fields, is expected to be a sudden reversal of potato stocks, turning an apparent surplus into what may become an actual shortage in the whole Pacific Northwest.

With Prairie vegetables similarly affected, potatoes may eclipse all previous efforts by market control boards and rise to unprecedented prices in the next few months. It was stated, depending on actual stocks salvaged from the fields.

Chinese potato growers, who for the most part lifted their crops from the land in preparation of Fall planting, were said to be in a preferred position, with tubers safely stored for the winter and a rising market ahead.

This position is a complete reversal from a few weeks ago, when officials of the British Columbia Coast Vegetable Board were imposing strict marketing quotas on white and Chinese growers in order to maintain prices. Nature, in one swoop, has turned a glut into a shortage with results that have upset market-control predictions badly.

AUDITORIUM IS PLANNED

School Board Authorizes Calling of Tenders for Building

Oaklands School is to have an auditorium, members of the Victoria School Board decided last evening at a special meeting. C. Edwood Watkins, who drew the plans, was authorized to call for tenders in order that trustees may ascertain the cost of the proposed building.

Although the City Council on November 4 decided to provide only $6,000 for erection of the auditorium, it is understood that the building will cost between $10,000 and $12,000. The $6,000 will come from the $100,000 borrowed by the council from the Provincial Government for unemployment relief projects.

Present plans call for an auditorium of pressed brick built on to the school. It will have a flat tar and gravel roof and will probably be heated from the school system.

SEAT 500 PUPILS

The auditorium, as planned by Mr. Watkins, will measure inside fifty by seventy feet eight inches, with a fifteen-foot ceiling. It will be capable of seating 454 pupils in standard chairs or at least 500 with the addition of benches. There will be a double entrance and vestibule at one end and two entrances from the school corridor. Light will be provided from large windows on two sides.

There will be a stage at one end measuring thirteen by twenty-eight feet with two dressing-rooms. Underneath the auditorium floor, plans call for a basement with a ceiling nine feet ten inches high.

FINANCING PROJECT

School trustees held considerable debate upon the question of financing the project. It is understood that an attempt will be made by them to have the 1936 City Council pass the excess over $6,000 as an extraordinary expenditure.

The cost of the building will not be definitely known until Mr. Watkins receives tenders.

cism of the Government's attitude to the League of Nations as dilatory in the past on the one hand and premature in the present on the other, declared its policy had been the same all through. He urged the need for national unity and a firm, consistent policy.

The Government sought world peace through the League. He believed a National Government was the best instrument to continue the work at Geneva, and to define by agreement a plan of common and effective action with regard to the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

Dealing with home affairs, the Prime Minister said the essential features of the Government's reconstruction programme were the continuance of industrial revival and an intensive programme of social reform from the viewpoint of health and education.

NO EMPTY PROMISES

"It is no phantasm of alluring promises which will vanish into thin air when the time comes for their fulfilment," he said. "I would sooner go out of office than deceive the electors with promises incapable of fulfilment."

Mr. Baldwin said the Government would carry out its programme of social improvements. There was no foundation for the suggestion that any increase in expenditure on defences would prevent them from going ahead with the social plans.

ROOSEVELT HOPES FOR TRADE TREATY

The whole aim was to increase the volume of trade between the two countries, and the President said he hopes to see some arrangement completed soon to achieve that end.

MAINTAINS SILENCE

When Mr. King left the State Department after his talk with Secretary Hull he told questioning reporters "it would not be safe to assume anything" in respect to the nature of his discussions. The Prime Minister steadfastly maintained that his visit to Washington is not of an official nature, but only a matter of paying his respects to the United States President before proceeding farther south to spend a holiday. He has firmly refused to be drawn into making any official comment.

Meanwhile, the three Canadian trade experts are burning midnight oil with their fellow conferees in the State Department, seeking to strike a working basis for an agreement between the two countries whose natural and manufactured products are rapidly approaching a similarity which tends to make trade negotiations difficult.

NEARING COMPLETION

It is believed here, however, that there are channels open by which the two countries can reduce trade restrictions on a wide range of commodities and on a mutually profitable basis. It is also believed the negotiations are approaching the stage where a decision is to be reached which may be drafted and submitted to the governments concerned.

MAY SEND DELEGATES TO NAVAL CONFERENCE

OTTAWA, Nov. 8 (P.).—The Government was undecided tonight about sending a Canadian delegation to the London Naval Conference, but Minister of Justice Lapointe said the chances were that Canada would be represented. A Canadian delegation attended both the Washington and London Naval Conferences in 1922 and 1930, although the Dominion has no individual interest in naval reduction programmes.

PATERNAL LEGISLATION

One unmistakable feature of the radical American experiment known as the New Deal is the strenuous effort of the Government to dominate the economic life of that country, and it is highly instructive to consider attentively the character and quality of the officials who were appointed to that end.

Our American neighbors appear to have gone through an experience not unlike our own in one important respect at least. For several years they have been listening to the strident voices of self-appointed social and political counsellors of a radical type. The American radical social reformers and uplifters followed pretty much the same strategy and tactics as those on this side of the boundary. They denounced in unmeasured terms the shortcomings of industry, of commerce and of banking arrangements generally, but they failed to utter a single word of warning about the weakness, the inexperience, the incompetence of the "economy planners" themselves, the fatal lack of industrial and financial intelligence in the very men to whom they proposed to entrust the tremendous task of reforming all these things.

If there had been in existence in the United States a permanent, highly trained and competent civil service on the English model, the New Deal might have achieved some measure of success. With a huge staff of tens of thousands of politically selected administrators in subordinate positions, it never really had the ghost of a chance to accomplish any results of a permanently beneficial character. The sufferings of the people of the United States under the New Deal have been brought about by the ineptitude of what has been described as "a horde of low-voltage busybodies, most of them the progeny of the spoils system." Such, at any rate, is the opinion of the former Professor of History and Government of Harvard University, now an official at the California Institute of Technology, expressed in an essay printed in the current Atlantic Monthly.

If the learned professor is right, this middle-class interference with business in the United States by the activities of boards, commissions and other official agencies of the Government is, and has been for the past two and a half years, an intolerable nuisance, and has, in fact, hindered and delayed normal recovery. The situation has special interest for us in this country for the reason that there has been a good deal, and in the opinion of many, far too much governmental interference with the ordinary operations of business. In some of the later radio addresses of Mr. Bennett there was a hint that new measures were in contemplation which might increase rather than diminish the bureaucratic activities of the Government. While Mr. Bennett's spirited defence and splendid justification of his policy and administration throughout his term of office brought much support to him during the election campaign, it is likely that many, who ordinarily and normally vote on the Conservative side, were disturbed by the prospect of new and possibly more drastic rules and regulations for business, to be interpreted and applied by governmental officials.

The election was certainly an emphatic rejection of the programme of Socialism with its grandiose scheme of a "planned economy." It was an equally emphatic rejection of the proposals of a meddling and paternalistic "reconstruction" party. It was an intimation that the Conservative forces of the country are resolutely opposed to any further concessions to the demands of radical social reformers.

Few Canadian Prime Ministers have been more fortunate than Mr. King. The political prospect which greets him upon entering office is a fair prospect at the moment. He has a formidable majority behind him. He stands to profit greatly by the operation of the Ottawa Agreements which were the work of Mr. Bennett. The beneficial effects of those agreements are becoming clearer every day. There are also some signs that the rigors of economic nationalism in foreign nations are relaxing and the good fortune, which Mr. Bennett deserved but which fate and circumstance denied to him, may smile upon Mr. King. Chiefly, however, in domestic affairs, Mr. King is fortunate in entering office at a time when radical agitation has reached its limit and is now, to all appearances, due for a steady decline.

A CHAMPION OF ITALY

Mr. George Bernard Shaw has appeared as the champion of Italy in the present African War. His plea that the purpose of aggression is a right purpose is based on his belief that the development of human habitation and social development is a "well-engineered and polished main road, with water supplies from artificial wells, and refuelling stations." To bring about these things his contention is that when the natives are ferocious, "it is unpleasantly necessary to convince them that the constructive power of the roadmakers is accompanied by destructive powers which make the police irresistible." Colonization, he says, is done by unilateral action. His contention is that it should be done by collective action, but the League of Nations is not yet equipped for that purpose.

Mr. Shaw points out that Italy is making roads through Ethiopia with the avowed intention of colonizing it, and "the Danakels are doing their utmost to stop the process by killing the roadmakers and their guards." Mr. Shaw is on the side of the engineers. He winds up a diatribe on the subject in the following characteristic language: "I do not want the Italians to fire on us. Old as I am, I am not so pitifully imbecile as to believe that the modern habit of calling torpedoes, mines, blockades, sieges, battles and bombs 'sanctions' alters their nature so completely that a vote for sanctions is a vote for peace. Things have now been brought to a pass at which a vote for sanctions is a vote for a combined attack on Italy by France and England. It would be far more sensible and humane to drop the Geneva Council down the crater of Vesuvius. I trust there is common sense enough left in England to quash the first alternative and render the second unnecessary."

Mr. Shaw, as is his wont, takes a contrary view of things. He regards those who will not share his admiration of Signor Mussolini as tainted with hypocrisy and lunatic cunning. He wants what he thinks is the cause of civilization advanced by a disregard of those elementary human rights for which civilization should stand. His criticism cannot be taken seriously. It is not by one commentator on his remarks, who writes: Poor Mussolini, by such cares perplexed. Banned by the League, with all its sanctions vexed. Must now endure the last, the heaviest straw, The patronage of Mr. Bernard Shaw.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST NOISE

The British Government is conducting a campaign against noise, not against the customary sounds of civilization, but needless, useless and provocative noises. A Department Committee of the Ministry of Transport has been at work making an investigation into noises, and it has now prepared certain recommendations. One of these is that "no new motor car, cycle or lorry shall be allowed to make more than 90 phons of noise when running at 30 m.p.h. on full throttle, or more than 95 phons when, with the vehicle stationary, the engine is running at full speed." The phons is the unit used for measuring noise. The scale starts with the "threshold of audibility" as zero. Here are measures of sound:

Watch ticking at three feet	30
Quiet street	30-40

Dr. G. W. C. Kaye, the chairman of the committee that has investigated noise, says that the human ear is a miraculous thing and that the loudest noise it can bear is 10 million million times as great in energy as the softest noise it can hear. Noise is undoubtedly having its effect on mental reactions and probably is the cause of many nervous troubles. In this connection The Yorkshire Post says that there is not the slightest need for ear-splitting horns, which shows how possible it would be for noise-lovers to be deprived of their worst weapons. There is no question of a League of Silence, but there is the desire to eliminate unnecessary noises from present-day civilization.

It was as a result of his experience in attempting to direct and control the New Deal in the United States that General Hugh S. Johnson learned that man-made laws cannot repeal the laws of Nature. He, and everybody else, should learn this fact in their school days.

MEMORIES

Twinkling lights, a misty valley,
Silver moonlight on the bay,
Thoughts and fancies round me rally,
Memories of yesterday.

Silent hills, the sea's deep drumming,
Pragrant scents of broom and heath,
Skyarks' song, the wild bees' humming,
How I loved thee, dear Dunbeath.

Carefree song, and joyous laughter,
O, the bythesome friends I knew,
Some time in the dim hereafter
Will my dearest wish come true.

Once again I see Knocknolly,
See Balclachin lie beneath,
Milton nestling in the valley—
See thee all, my own Dunbeath.

—Duncan B. Sutherland, in The Scotsman.

RESOLUTIONS

Let us all resolve: First, to attain the grace of silence; second, to deem all fault-finding that does no good a sin, and to resolve, when we are happy ourselves, not to poison the atmosphere for our neighbors, by calling on them to remark every painful and disagreeable feature of their daily life; third, to practise the grace and virtue of praise.—Mrs. H. B. Stowe.

Our brief hours travel fast;
Each with its thought or deed, its why or how.
But know, each parting hour gives up a ghost
To dwell within thee—an eternal Now.
—Coleridge.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

In these times we fight for ideas, and newspapers are our fortresses.—Helen.

There are all sorts and conditions of newspapermen in Canada, and we have met most of them. Newspapermen, as distinguished from mere journalists, are a rumbling, grumbly lot. If there is one newspaper man in this country satisfied with his condition in life, we have yet to meet him—he says it is what he calls "the demitition grind" that irks him; that there is a perpetual urge to run away from his job and discover that as yet undiscovered place, a sanctuary exempt from the trials and tribulations of scribal life.

But we suspect all that stuff is what the juniors in the newspaper business call "side," a kind of professional vanity; that even the veterans in the trade believe in their hearts that their profession is the most attractive of all callings, and would not run away from it if they were assured of more remunerative jobs, with the added assurance of pensions on retirement.

Lest the above should be considered magnification of the offices of journalists, consider the remarkable case of Mr. J. W. Dufoe, president of The Winnipeg Free Press Printing Company and editor of the paper. Mr. Dufoe has been offered the most important diplomatic post in the gift of his friend, Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, and has declined with thanks to accept it. How many men in Canada, notably how many politicians in Canada, would have spurned the idea of becoming Ambassador to Washington? We suspect very few ordinary newspapermen would have been able to resist the temptation of taking such a job, to which is attached a salary higher than that of a Prime Minister and duties and responsibilities greater than those of ordinary public men.

Then the social attractions of the United States capital should make a strong appeal to the imaginations of men and women who like their names in the papers after reception and the joy of the dance. We wonder whether Mrs. Dufoe (if any) were consulted about that historical renunciation. But there are no strings attached to the editor of The Free Press. There are some features in the character of Mr. Dufoe which have been criticized, but weakness is not one of them. An editor who dares to reject and oppose the policies of the proprietor of his paper is a man who knows his own mind. At a time of political crisis in Canada The Free Press thundered in support of free trade and maintained that a treaty of reciprocal trade between Canada and the United States would have been in the best interests of this country. The people of Canada were not convinced at that time that The Free Press was right. The last reciprocity treaty laid before the country was rejected by the popular vote. The present Prime Minister has wavered and wobbled, and for a time lost the confidence of the determined editor, but Mr. Dufoe nailed his economic colors to the masthead of his paper, and they are fluttering to the breeze today.

The whirligig of time has been twirling, and political history is repeating itself. Ottawa and Washington are again discussing the question of reciprocity of trade. Mr. Dufoe has been the strongest and mightiest champion of such a policy. He is a profound philosopher as well as an able party politician. He has consistently maintained that trade with the United States is of more importance to Canada than trade with any other country. He has always professed to believe that in relative importance United States trade comes first and British trade second in the job of restoring Canadian prosperity. His personal relations with the people of the United States are cordial, and the discourses he has delivered before American institutions of learning have been pontifical.

We assume that is why the Prime Minister offered him the position of Canadian ambassador at Washington, and we expect that if he had accepted the appointment he would have been cordially welcomed at the capital by the President. For a master mind and a delicate hand will be necessary to draw up a treaty of trade and commerce which will be acceptable to the people and politicians of the United States and to the people of Canada. The Premier and the President may propose, but the politicians and the people dispose. The lion in the path is the fact that so many of the interests in the two countries are common and so many of the products of the two countries are similar. A nation which has adopted the principle of protection is not likely to accept without adequate consideration the possibility of keen competition in natural and manufactured products. The President has been given powers to negotiate trade treaties with all nations, but

Quessel Goes Parliamentary

The good citizens of Quessel are in a parliamentary maze. The village commissioners had an argument with the local water and light company, and a public meeting was called, at which the majority of the ratepayers voted in favor of the public utility company. That was all very clear, but now, says The Cariboo Observer, "there has been a steady flow of inquiries at this office seeking information as to whether or no the village commissioners intend resigning according to parliamentary procedure after their defeat on the floor of the House." Tuesday night. Perhaps Mr. Speaker Harry Perry, resident of the neighboring city of Prince George, can give a learned answer to the parliamentary procedure puzzle.—B.A.M.

He Thumbed the Date

Life has its moments, even for a civil servant. A high official of an unnamed Government stopped his car recently to aid a man working on a vehicle in the ditch. It was a police trap! The official was asked for his driver's licence, his name, and his station, all of which he refused to give. When the argument produced his credentials, his pass over the Cariboo toll road, and a driver's licence, between thumb and forefinger. Then he accepted the apologies of the policeman, but took his name. At the next town, the official bought a 1935 driver's licence to take the place of the 1934 model he had thumbed to the policeman.—S.G.

The Laugh Parade

Hearty laughs were provided onlookers in a tobacconist's shop this week. Fitted-up on the counter was a life-size model of a soldier saluting. A customer sauntered in and greeted the model in reply before he realized it was an automaton. . . . A friend of the last radio inspector, here with a radio noise locating automobile, tells us the official informed him Victoria is the worst city in the province for man-made static. Come and listen to our set if you do not believe it. . . . We hear that the ex-alderman of Victoria is presenting a Mainland city to adopt his new currency plan. Instead of money, he plans to use exchange certificates. Each week you hoard one of them it depreciates one per cent in value. How would this work out before being received? . . . Seattle is to get a 10 per cent reduction in water rates. San Franciscans next January will enjoy a slash in electric light charges. Victoria will get —?—O.B.

Chatting With the Champ

There never was a more confident heavyweight champion than James J. Braddock, tall and husky product of New Jersey. He's cocksure of whipping Joe Louis when they tangle next year. A stream of lefts and counter-punching rights will do the trick, he told your truly. S.T. of this column, and the sports editor down the next corner, in his room at the Empress Hotel. Another thing, he is twenty-nine and not thirty, as the record books say. He thinks Sharkey's comeback is a joke; that Carnera never could fight; that Louis will kayo Schmeling; and also Uzcudum.—His butt will draw over a million dollar gate with the "Brown Bomber." He promised his wife and kiddies, and Madison Square Garden, that he would not travel by "air" during his barnstorming tour.—His only bad habit is smoking cigars.—He said he was paralyzed when he entered the ring to meet Louis, and that's why he made such a terrible showing.—His manager, Joe Gould, has been with him for ten years, and that he expects to boss Muzz Patrick in future ring warfares when the time comes.—Braddock really is a gentleman, nice to the newspapermen and like a big "kid" to mingle with.—J.D.

Thanks a Whole Lot

Victoria fight fans Thursday evening were afforded the opportunity of seeing James J. Braddock, heavyweight champion of the world, in action. The show was staged under the joint auspices of the 8th Brigade and the 16th Canadian Scottish, but credit for the idea of bringing the "champ" here must go to Tommy Drysdale, young Victoria promoter. Drysdale laid upon the idea of bringing Braddock to Victoria, and with the co-operation of the two militia regiments, was able to see his plans materialize. We join other local fight fans in passing the orchids to Promoter Drysdale and the officers and men of the two militia units who made the visit of James J. Braddock, world's champion, possible.—S.T.

STRICKEN TOWN BEING REBUILT

E. Gummer, of Moose Jaw, Tells of Conditions in Helena, Montana

Despite sub-zero weather, the residents of Helena, Montana, are busily engaged in rebuilding their city which was stricken by a series of earthquakes. E. Gummer, of Moose Jaw, reported on his arrival here Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gummer are registered at the Strathcona Hotel, while looking for a permanent place of residence. They plan to retire here, and will locate on a small farm. They came from Moose Jaw in their own car.

Mr. Gummer explained how most of the buildings damaged in Helena, which he passed through en route, were of brick construction. The wooden buildings did not seem to suffer from the shocks, so people are planning to rebuild chiefly with wooden structures.

The travelers had an eventful journey, their way to the Coast being blocked at times with heavy snowdrifts.

TIMELY ASSISTANCE

Sir—Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Eastman wish to thank those who so kindly assisted when Mrs. Eastman and her grandson, Billy Salt, were thrown from the car in which they were passengers when it was in collision with an automobile at the intersection of Richmond and Leighton Roads, on Wednesday. They especially wish to thank the young man who took them in his car to the home of Mrs. Robert Winter, on Leighton Road. Owing to the hysterical condition of Mrs. Eastman, thanks were not rendered, and his name was not obtained. Mrs. Salt, driver of the car, and her son, Billy, escaped with minor bruises.

GREAT BRITAIN AND ARMAMENTS

Sir—Your contemporary, the evening paper—is, or pretends to be, puzzled why the National Government is advocating for more money to be spent on armaments. It is easy to see that any problem is puzzling when one wishes it to be; as it is just as easy to see that any politically developed individual is of course, conservative. Radicalism in any shape or form inevitably leads to chaos and disaster, be it whether it is endorsed by a king as in the case of Mussolini, or whether in extreme trade unionism which condemns the idea (not to their comrades) of human right. In 1930, we find Mr. Ramsay MacDonald imbued with an abstract principle in treating France to reduce her fleet to the size of Italy's.

We can well visualize the smile on the face of the tiger; at any rate the very opposite happened—with the result we were unprepared—and even were a shot not fired in defence of this all classes will be heavily taxed. Which proves that there is no organic growth which is "progressive" in the radical sense; and that even in the distance when, we hope, the world has warmed to the idea of internationalism, the abstract principle can only mature and lead upwards by conservative organic growth and all that goes with it such as, for example, reverence for history, tradition, learning, law and order.

At present, surrounded by armed peoples and doubtful friends, it is easy to see that for Great Britain there are no short cuts whereby she can (like Canada) synthesize in strategic indolence and borrowed splendor. And it is odd that your contemporary should moralize so freely about "vital proposals" and "women who wait and weep," since safe defences may save both weeping and waiting—at least until the retrograde peoples view life with a better angle and richer whiff. In my opinion this weeping and waiting hypothesis is plain unadulterated cant, since at this very moment the weeping continues; the soul-destroyer goes his gleeful way; the road-killer wallows in huge content; the moralizers are steeped in virtues twice three squares by day and clean sheets by night.

Oh! these moralizing moderns with their take all you can see, your Christmas, self-satisfying, general formula! I too am a modern of some kind, even their queer economic patriotism, their queer economics, their narrow provincialism, but I cannot accept their piping chastity.

YAWNING

Sir—Yawning seems to puzzle scientists at present. The cause of this affliction is the lack of understanding in relation to soul and body. Yawning is caused by an accumulation of poison in the soul body and released by its safety valve, yawning. To stop this one must find the cause which is, in most cases, wrong food, wrong breathing and faulty air; through these the heart and lungs become clogged. If the spiritual part of the food is not in harmony with the soul and body it does not help the body, but turns to poison which is released through yawning or perspiration.

As yawning is a spiritual sickness it can be cured only by spiritual treatment which is: deep breathing, pure air, pure water, natural sleep and quietness, harmonious environment, milk and wholesome bread, fruit and vegetables, all these must harmonize with the individual body and soul. I went round with the man pegging out the poles and together we agreed that only two unimportant trees need be sacrificed. He assured me he could easily avoid the big ones and a unique group of six growing close together just off the main street.

The slashing gang came along on November 2. There was very little small stuff in these heavy woods, but they found enough to start a fire close to the aforesaid group. No one was in attendance on Sunday as the fire crept in and No. 1 tree was ablaze. I rang up the fire warden, who told me the close season of trees ended last month. I forewarned a Mr. H. Dougan, the foreman of the slashing gang, who proposed to be indignant that I and the tree were a matter of importance on Sunday.

The tree crashed across the road at 6 a.m. on Monday. I met the gang at 8, coming, as I hoped, to prevent further damage. They cleared the road but left the butt burning freely. Imagine my surprise on returning at 10 to find they had gone down the line 100 feet, and had undercut a giant-and started to saw, aiming this tree directly at the big group close to the adjoining group of trees.

I told Mr. Dougan if the tree must come down to wait till the butt had burnt out or roll it out of the way. He told me he was

B.C. On-to-Ottawa Party Will Leave Shortly for East

Premier Pattullo, Four Ministers, and Four Civil Servants Included in Official Group—Dominion-Provincial Conversations Start Nov. 27

BRITISH Columbia will send a delegation of nine to Ottawa, including five members of the Cabinet, Premier Pattullo announced yesterday. Four officials of the civil service will be in the party, which, going by separate routes, will assemble at the national capital on November 27. Premier Pattullo will lead the delegation.

With the Premier are expected to be Hon. John Hart, Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir, Hon. G. S. Pearson and Hon. G. M. Sloan, K.C., from Cabinet ranks, and Dr. W. A. Carrothers, E. V. Fisher, E. W. Griffith and Alan Maclean from departmental staffs. The conference, nominally of four days' duration, is expected to take additional time before reaching a final settlement.

PROBLEMS UNCHANGED
British Columbia requests, as recited by the Premier and other members of the Cabinet, will be much as in other years, with finance, better terms, reduction of taxation and other issues recurring, in addition to the major problem of unemployment.

Premier Pattullo said he expected to go to Toronto and Montreal after the conference, and would probably visit New York as well, in a general review of conditions in the East.

Hon. A. W. Gray, Hon. F. M. Macpherson and Hon. K. C. MacDonald are expected to remain here, with Mr. Gray as acting Premier.

"Let's Be Friends" Colorful Pageant With Fine Theme

Large Audience Is Thrilled With Ambitious Production Sponsored by Y.W.C.A.—Many Talented Artists Give Balance to Programme

ON the magic carpet of international friendship, a large audience at the Empire Theatre, last night, was taken on a trip around the world in the production "Let's Be Friends," a cavalcade of understanding, by Dorothy Crighton and produced by Ethel Reese Burns under the auspices of the Y.W.C.A. The performance will be repeated tonight at 8:15 o'clock.

The production, developed on pageant lines, had all the color and romance that one would expect to find on a honeymoon voyage around the world, and added to that was the theme of the pageant, international fellowship and peace.

OUTSTANDING SUCCESS
The presentation itself was a tribute to the creative and imaginative talent of Miss Crighton, and the wonderful organizing and production ability of Ethel Reese Burns. The pageant at no time was allowed to lag. There were no long waits between acts, while the various acts were assured of outstanding success by virtue of the fact that the organizers recruited the performers from the very best of Victoria's talent.

In order to give a motive for the world tour, a bride and groom were introduced at the outset, and as they went from country to country, bright scenes, gay dances, delightful songs, and humorous sketches were provided for the public's entertainment.

VARIOUS SCENES
The first scene was laid in Hawaii, and from there the bride and groom traveled to Japan—India, Spain, France, Holland, Russia, England, Scotland and back to Victoria.

The entire production had wonderful balance, a host of really talented artists, while the stage settings were beyond criticism of any kind. In fact, the scenic effects were among the most commendable features of the pageant.

Each act had a separate convener and it would appear the convener was in an attempt to outdo each other in their particular contribution to the programme.

VARIED TALENT
There was a variety of entertainment that would please the most fastidious person, and after seeing last night's performance, no doubt remains respecting tonight's. It should be a sell-out, as was nearly the case last night.

Specific mention of any one act or any single or group of players has been refrained from intentionally for each and everyone is entitled to the highest tribute for the untiring energy, able acting, singing and dancing. Thus all those connected with the production have been listed so that each may share equally the honors that must go to so successful a pageant.

THE CAST
Those taking part or assisting in the pageant were: Edie Finlayson, Betty Fawcett, Vida Shandley, Birdie Pendray, Mary Macdonald, Nora Williams, Don MacMurchie, Ron Heister, Gordon Heister, George Fallick, Vic Cooley, Leslie Fletcher, Jean Manhard, Winnie Fallick, Molly Fannick, Hazel Ledson, Ruth Rogers, Mrs. George Strath, Halsey Ueda, Marjorie Kuata, Toshio Baba, Tsuyaki Doi, Misahp Inishi, Masao Nishimura, Sumiya Onishi, Mrs. Jay, Hilda Onishi, Patsy Kuwato, Shizuko Hirochani.

POPPY SALE HERE TODAY

Annual Event Being Conducted to Help 600 Needy Ex-Servicemen

Throughout Canada, today will be observed as Poppy Day. In all cities of any size, poppies made by disabled veterans will be sold on the streets to raise funds for assistance to ex-servicemen with no source of income.

Poppy Day was inaugurated in 1921, and arrangements for the sale of the flowers are in the hands of the Remembrance Day committee, headed by Commander C. H. R. Slingsby. J. Waterson is in charge of the poppy office at 1241 Broad Street.

Last year the committee assisted 600 veterans, with a total of 1,800 beneficiaries. A community cross will be placed at the corner of Yates and Douglas Streets for the purpose of receiving donations. Poppy sellers will start out at 8 o'clock this morning and will probably dispose of flowers up to 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

REPORTS ON NEW FARMING AREAS

Rev. W. M. Kannawin Praises Courage and Enterprise of Settlers in North

After a tour through the recently established farming communities in the northern sections of the Prairie Provinces, Rev. W. M. Kannawin, Toronto, general secretary of Sabbath schools and young people's societies for the Presbyterian Church in Canada, is in Victoria, telling how former residents of the Southern Prairies left arid districts within the last few years and valiantly rehabilitated themselves in the colder but more fertile country of the North.

Mr. Kannawin, when interviewed at the Strathcona Hotel, had high praise for the courage and enterprise of those who moved into the new country. Canada's prize wheat for several years had come out of this area, the visitor said, but the future seemed to him to be in mixed farming.

FRANK LEROY ENTERS RACE

Eight Candidates Now Seek Aldermanic Honors—Is Old Campaigner

FRANK LEROY

Frank LeRoy, who in the past has provided some lively civic election campaigns, is again in the race, this time for aldermanic honors. Mr. LeRoy announced his candidature yesterday, after he had been urged by many friends and associates to run in order that some new blood might be infused into the council.

Mr. LeRoy has run for the mayoralty seat and also for alderman in past years, and in offering himself again this year, is doing so because he feels that it is time there was a change on the council. With new members on the council, the city might benefit from some new ideas, he believes.

The candidate is a heavy taxpayer, and at all times has taken a keen interest in public affairs. His entrance into the aldermanic contest brings the number of aspirants to eight for the five vacancies. All the retiring aldermen, namely: John Worthington, Alex. Peden, P. E. Brown, R. A. C. Dewar and T. W. Hawkins, are seeking reelection. The other candidates, in addition to Mr. LeRoy, are Edward Williams and Mrs. Alice McGregor.

CANADIAN ARMY GIVEN PRAISE

Rev. E. F. Church Delivers Remembrance Day Address to Britannia Branch

"Great as were the 'Old Contemptibles' of England, it remained for leading officers of the English army to acclaim the 'Old Contemptibles' of Canada as a great fighting force," declared Rev. E. F. Church, in a Remembrance Day address delivered last night at a concert staged by the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion.

"Canada does not cease to remember these men, and we will never forget them and the sacrifice they made," continued Rev. E. F. Church, in a Remembrance Day address delivered last night at a concert staged by the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion.

He urged upon his audience the need of not glorifying war. "God grant there will come a time when war will no longer be fought in the world," he stated.

Mr. Church reviewed the activities of the English "Old Contemptibles" prior to the Second Battle of Ypres, when the remnant of the force was joined by the Canadian troops. Throughout his address, Mr. Church told many stories and discussed other phases of life in the trenches in a jocular fashion.

Percy C. Payne, chairman of the branch entertainment committee, presided.

Those taking part in the programme were Miss Elsie Friend, Arthur Jackson, Miss Phyllis Holmes, Mesdames Gurney, Kyle, MacDonald, Reid, Keating, Bains and Kemsley, Thomas Obee, Stanley James, R. Morrison and Reginald Stoffer.

LAST RITES FOR ALBERNI PIONEER

Funeral Services at Salt Spring for John Carter Mollet, Many Years an Island Resident

GANGES, Nov. 8.—The funeral of John Carter Mollet, aged eighty-eight years, who passed away on November 3 at his home in the Burgoyne Valley, was held on Tuesday at St. Mary's Church, Salt Spring, Rev. C. H. Popham, vicar of the parish, officiated at the service in church and at the grave. Mrs. Byng was at the organ and the hymns sung were "Peace, Perfect Peace" and "Rock of Ages." Interment took place at the Anglican Cemetery adjoining the church, where many old-timers and friends followed the casket, covered with beautiful floral tributes, to its last resting place. The pallbearers were Henry Rickard, Harold Price, Dick Maxwell, Ted Akerman, W. Patterson and J. Cairns.

Mr. Mollet was a native of the Channel Islands and a pioneer of Alberni, from where he came in 1906 to Salt Spring Island and purchased the property known at that time as the Ford Farm, situated on the Ganges-Fulford Road. It is now owned by Harold and Reginald Price.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. J. H. Lee; P. C. and A. J. Mollet, of Fulford Harbor; six granddaughters, and one great-grandchild.

Restless Nights - Pepless Days Take the Joy Out of Life

The potent cause lies in the hurried life we lead, in the extreme nervous tension and fever heat with which we follow in the pursuit of wealth, position and pleasure.

Late hours, want of necessary rest, excessive mental or physical exertion all put a strain on the system it is unable to withstand. No wonder then you pass restless nights and get up in the morning with no ambition to go about your daily tasks.

ARGUE OVER TAX ARREARS

Allocation of Collections Causes Discussion by Ladysmith Council

LADYSMITH, Nov. 8.—The allocation of collected arrears in respect of school taxes provided a hot minute of contention at the regular meeting of the City Council here Wednesday evening.

A report on the matter, drawn up by a committee composed of the city auditor, chairman of the finance committee of the School Trustees and the Council, was submitted some weeks ago, and while accepted in toto by the Board, was somewhat amended by the Council at a recent meeting, when considered clause by clause.

Clause 4, which practically embodied the school trustees' suggestion for the allocation of collected arrears to the impending school estimates, was amended to include arrears collections until the end of the current year, to facilitate auditing and the closing of books for the year.

MOTION DISALLOWED

When Mayor Walkem called for action on the amended clause, Alderman Joyce moved that the matter be laid on the table until such time as the City Council was composed of members who were not school trustees. Mayor Walkem immediately ruled the motion out of order, and called the alderman's attention to the fact that the matter was being discussed by a responsible elected council, and the fact that certain aldermen were also elected school trustees should not affect the reasonable discussion of the report.

Alderman Joyce claimed that the fact that certain aldermen were also school trustees, prejudiced discussion on a report of the kind, and questioned that the Mayor had the right to rule his motion out. Mayor Walkem offered to vacate the chair to clarify the situation, and the subject was dropped.

On the motion to accept the amended report, Alderman Joyce declared, as the motion passed, he wanted to be recorded as dissenting to the whole thing.

A delegation from the local committee on library affairs, comprising Miss B. Traub and E. Akenhead, addressed the Council on the proposal for the establishment of a union library for Vancouver Island. They requested permission to have a petition taken on a house-to-house basis to procure the necessary number of signatures of taxpayers to authorize the holding of a local plebiscite for or against the regional library scheme at the next civic elections.

EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN

Mr. Akenhead explained that the petitioning canvass would be in the nature of an educational campaign to stress the value of the union plan, and to point out that maximum costs for the Ladysmith school district would not exceed one dollar per household per annum. If a feasible method could be devised to include those subject to road poll tax, a rate of 70¢ was possible.

The Council granted permission for the canvass, and those in the council chamber attached their names to the petition sheets.

It was reported that arrangements for the observance of Remembrance Day were completed. Mayor Walkem remarked that an effort would be made to consolidate all welfare and Christmas cheer work in this locality to prevent duplication. The Mayor's Fund, after a good start, was dragging slightly, and efforts would be made to stimulate public interest. The Native Sons and Daughters of B.C. local post had arranged some social affairs to augment the fund, and probably other efforts could be devised to meet the need for shoes and clothing in some families during the cold season.

EXPRESS SYMPATHY

A letter of condolence from the Council will be sent to the family of the late Alexander Mackenzie, who died on Tuesday in Saanich. Mr. Mackenzie was widely known and respected here, and was for long years identified with the field activities of the Dunsmuir interests and the Canadian Collieries.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO CHARACTER

Rabbi M. Berner Conducts Impressive Funeral Rites For Late Mrs. Sylvester

Eloquent tribute to the splendid womanly attributes of the late Mrs. Cecilia Sylvester was paid by Rabbi M. Berner at the funeral rites held yesterday afternoon. A congregation, representing all denominations and classes of the community, crowded the chapel, and the many floral tributes from individual friends and various organizations filled the entire front of the chapel. A delegation from the L.O.E.D. was present.

The impressive Jewish ritual was followed, with special prayers and an address by the Rabbi. In speaking of the fine character of Mrs. Sylvester, who spent most of her eighty-seven years in Victoria, Rabbi Berner referred to her profound sense of honor, justice and love. These dominated her life and made it memorable as being guided by the religion of humanity. Her time was occupied in the doing of practical good for her family and her fellow-beings, a principle which she developed as a girl and carried throughout her life.

ORGAN VOLUNTARIES

During the services, the two hymns, "Forever With the Lord" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee," were played as organ voluntaries.

Interment was in the family plot at the Jewish Cemetery, where a short committal service was also conducted by Rabbi Berner. The pallbearers were W. Clarke, D. Miller, W. C. Morehead, K.C.; Dr. David Norman, H. I. Malek and H. A. Nuttall, the past-president, Mrs. H. A. Nuttall, and Mrs. Eva Levy, councillor.

The association now holds a clear title to the property. Since the last general meeting on August 5 the association has received from various sources $602, $500 being donated by C. F. Todd, Victoria, the balance being from rentals and membership dues. At the present time the association has on hand $1,000.

Plans provide for a frame structure, with a clear space on the main floor of sixty feet by ninety feet, affording a full basketball floor and three badminton courts, a built-in stage with seating capacity for 700 people, and provision for hot and cold showers.

States Criticism Does Not Presage Defeat of Party

All the criticism that is being directed at President Roosevelt over his New Deal policies, Mr. Trevitt contends, does not presage the overthrow of the Democratic administration.

He added that the Republicans have no definite platform to take the place of the New Deal.

Mr. Taylor expressed his appreciation to 120 donors who had sent in subscriptions in the last six weeks. In the middle of September a number of letters were sent to former subscribers and friends, and a general appeal for funds made, to create a fund to carry on through the winter months. might be in trouble was received here, plans for a search were begun and some planes scouted across the jungles and the sea along his route yesterday. But they returned at nightfall to report no trace of the missing plane.

The last wireless message received from the Lady Southern Cross was on the take-off from Akyab, Burma. At that time the flyers had a good chance of breaking the England-Australia record of just under seventy-one hours, set by C.W.A. Scott and Tom Campbell-Black last year.

Aviation officials here said that if the veteran pilot landed in water without crashing he might be able to lighten his plane sufficiently to remain afloat for at least two days. They said he would probably dump some of his fuel.

Sir Charles and Pethybridge left Lympne Airport, England, last Wednesday in their attempt at a new record for the 12,900-mile flight to Australia. At Allahabad they were less than three hours behind the time set to that point by Scott and Campbell-Black.

R. F. Taylor, treasurer, in presenting his financial statement, showed income from donations received in October as $436.06; with expenditure of $185. Mr. Taylor expressed his appreciation to 120 donors who had sent in subscriptions in the last six weeks. In the middle of September a number of letters were sent to former subscribers and friends, and a general appeal for funds made, to create a fund to carry on through the winter months. At the time the letters were mailed the treasury had a balance of only 47 cents but now sufficient balance is on hand to cover expenses to the early part of January.

The treasurer confidently expects to receive sufficient before the end of the year to carry on. Prompt response had enabled the finance committee to meet all obligations as they came due. All accounts are paid to the end of October.

OPEN ON SUNDAYS

A. H. Hundley, secretary, reported the rooms are now open on Sundays for the winter months. A group of men, organized by Gilbert Fraser, has volunteered to supervise the rooms on Sundays to the end of the year, and arrangements have been made with the K. of C. First United and Metropolitan United Churches and Christ Church Cathedral to carry the work on until Spring.

The secretary is arranging for a series of free concerts in the rooms for the men, the first to take place on November 20, when Tom Obee and party will present a programme. Several men were sent out on odd jobs during the month. The secretary asks those needing men to call 66832. A good number of library books were sent in, and two shipments of discarded books, magazines and cards were forwarded to the camps for the use of the men there.

KINGSFORD-SMITH LOST OFF BURMA

might be in trouble was received here, plans for a search were begun and some planes scouted across the jungles and the sea along his route yesterday. But they returned at nightfall to report no trace of the missing plane.

The last wireless message received from the Lady Southern Cross was on the take-off from Akyab, Burma. At that time the flyers had a good chance of breaking the England-Australia record of just under seventy-one hours, set by C.W.A. Scott and Tom Campbell-Black last year.

Aviation officials here said that if the veteran pilot landed in water without crashing he might be able to lighten his plane sufficiently to remain afloat for at least two days. They said he would probably dump some of his fuel.

Sir Charles and Pethybridge left Lympne Airport, England, last Wednesday in their attempt at a new record for the 12,900-mile flight to Australia. At Allahabad they were less than three hours behind the time set to that point by Scott and Campbell-Black.

NEARLY DROWNED BUT DID NOT LEAVE SHIP

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—Four-year-old Jean Holy didn't fall overboard, but she almost drowned in the middle of the Pacific Ocean. She was wading in a pool aboard the Japanese liner Tatsuta Maru when she slipped beyond her depth. Peggy Stoneman, thirteen, leaped fully clothed into the pool and saved the child.

After listening to the usual damaging comparison between the girls of today and the girls of years ago, Miss Teenage remarked: "Well, if they were all so darned innocent, how did they know when to blush?"

JINX PURSUES PILOT HERMAN

Again Forced Down by Motor Trouble After Rescuing His Passengers

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Nov. 8 (P).—A radio report from Dawson said Pilot Jack Herman, after a second airplane accident, took shelter in Cassiar Roadhouse tonight with four men waiting to be flown to Dawson.

Herman, who spent last night in Dawson, flew Pilot Victor Ross' plane to Cassiar today to get out of the five passengers with whom Herman started from Dawson to Fairbanks last Saturday, only to be forced down by motor trouble on an island in the Yukon River, near Cassiar.

Ski pierced ice. A ski broke on Ross' plane today as it went through ice while Herman landed it, the report said. Repairs were expected to be made tomorrow and the entire party returned to Dawson in the Ross ship or in another.

Ross flew from Dawson to Cassiar last night and took Herman and one passenger, Okay Ogren, a placer driller, to Dawson.

Herman set out today to get George Townsend, Dawson; Oscar Adany, Sulphur Creek and Vancouver, B.C.; Walter James, White Horse, Y.T., and Peter Funk, a driller.

SHOW NO ANXIETY

Ross, William Lavery and Herman Lerdahl, other pilots, remained in Dawson tonight, the report said, apparently satisfied with the comfort of Herman and the four at Cassiar, thirty-five miles away.

New Hollywood Gowns Shown at Style Revue

Fashion Display at Hudson's Bay Company Sponsored by Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie Chapter, I.O.D.E., Attracts Splendid Crowd

Lovely materials, avelte lines, accents on sleeves, trains and necklines were highlights of the season's mode as noticed at the fashion revue held yesterday afternoon in the Victoria restaurant of the Hudson's Bay Company, under the auspices of the Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie Chapter, I.O.D.E.

About 180 spectators attended and the tea tables were attractive with white chrysanthemums and red carnations, the long, raised run-way along which the mannequins paraded being decorated with bronze chrysanthemums. The regent, Mrs. T. R. Myers and her committee welcomed the visitors.

In the sports wear section were some attractive frocks and suits, one particularly striking two-piece suit worn by Miss Carey, being a cleverly-designed model of rose of Persia and Hindu purple, the jacket being of the rose shade. A two-piece knitted sports suit worn by Miss Pennock was of sky orange and rustle, and was ornamented with very flat wooden buttons. Grecian blue was the shade of the Lanes sports model worn by Mrs. Rattenbury, and Mrs. Tautz wore a squadron blue bunny wool sports frock trimmed with blue velvet. Little June Gibson, Lorraine Stocker and Joyce Stocker were the mannequins for the children's clothes and for sports wear they showed jaunty "fans" pleated skirts and Austrian wool pullovers.

NOVELTY TRIMMINGS
Among the afternoon frocks were crepes of various shades, simplicity of line being a feature of these dresses and many relied upon steel or jeweled trimming to give an individual touch. An afternoon frock worn by Mrs. Rattenbury was of blackberry silk crepe with a jeweled ornament, and Miss Pennock showed a smart Chile brown seed crepe frock, made on severe military lines with narrow gold braid trimming and buttons. The popular shirt-waist full back gathered to a shoulder yoke was introduced into the gown of grape pebble satin worn by Mrs. Tautz. The children's frocks were smoked wool jersey in shades of wine, Persian green and scarlet.

Among the beautiful fur coats were Hudson seal, Scotch mole, muskrat, beaver de luxe and Japanese mink, and with these were worn Gainsborough, Shorlon and Molyneux model hats of velvet and fur felt. For chilly days children this season will wear coat sets of the smart Elizabeth style with pleated coats, tailored, and with hats and leggings to match.

"COCKTAIL" GOWNS
Gowns for the "cocktail" hour, that indefinite period between early afternoon and dinner-gown time, were among the most striking shown in the revue. One was of garnet crepe, worn with a striking gold and ruby belt. Another, worn by Miss T. Ackerman, was of rustle and crepe, made with Grecian drapery and on an Aladdin triple sheer dress was a distinctive trimming of velvet roses.

Lime green matelasse crepe, trimmed with French flowers, was worn by Miss E. McIntosh in the dinner-dress group, and an unusual model worn by Miss Ackerman was a Bagdad blue gown with a silver lame jacket with huge sleeves and slashed at the back. A lovely gown worn by Mrs. Rattenbury was of Gallant Lady crepe, made very simply with puff bishop sleeves of crepe and lace.

HOLLYWOOD MODELS
For more formal occasions there were specially imported Hollywood model gowns. The first, shown by Miss McIntosh as "worn by Roberta Gale," was a black taffeta, with diagonal gold interwoven stripes. Then came Miss Ackerman in a becoming purple model as "worn by Evelyn Knapp," made with large, draped sleeves and shirred train. Miss Carey's junior Hollywood model as "worn by Betty Egan" was of crisp black taffeta with a bolera jacket and ruffled frill neckline. Miss P. Pennock modeled a smart gown of coral matelasse crepe, made with a Dubonnet brown velvet drape and train, and bodice caught to a narrow halter neckline in front. Mrs. Rattenbury wore a distinctive and dignified model of imported cloth of gold, which relied on the beauty of the material and the simplicity of the cut for its charm.

Minard blue was the shade of the crepe de Vore gown worn by Mrs. Tautz, a particularly lovely shade for the woman with white hair, and to make this point, the mannequin donned a very becoming white transformation.

The children's party frocks were of silk crepe in shades of yellow and peach, trimmed with smocking and a rosebud silk crepe made with frills and bound with narrow ribbon.

Parents Hasten To Enter Babies In Colonist Show

ONE of the busiest offices in the city yesterday was that of the Tourist Trade Development Association, where entries are now being received for The Daily Colonist Baby Show, to be held in conjunction with the Winter Fair and Bazaar on December 4. The initial entry was filed ten minutes after the forms had been delivered to the office Thursday evening, and the tempo has been kept up ever since.

Babies up to the age of eighteen months are eligible for the big show, the age being entered as on the date of judging. Officials request that all names be handed in as early as possible in order to facilitate the task of classification.

Weddings

MASSICK-MURRAY
A quiet wedding was solemnized last evening at 8 o'clock in the Metropolitan Church, when Rev. J. H. A. Warr united in marriage Janet (Jean) Louise Murray, R.N., second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. J. Murray, Gabriola Island, and Mr. Arthur Ralph Massick, fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Massick, 360 Dunedin Street, Victoria. The bride was given away by her father. Miss Hilda Andrews, R.N., attended the bride, and Mr. Charles Massick supported his brother. After the service a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, Dunedin Street. Mr. and Mrs. Massick left for Up-Island, where the honeymoon will be spent, and on their return will make their home in Victoria. The out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. J. Murray, of Gabriola Island, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Massick, of Sidney.

The sum of approximately $84 was realized from the guest tea held yesterday at the Memorial Hall by the Women's Parish Guild of Christ Church Cathedral, under the convener'ship of the president, Mrs. George Miles, who was assisted by the guild members.

The tea tables looked particularly charming with their decorations of chrysanthemums, autumn berries and Chinese lanterns, illuminated by matching tapers in silver or crystal candlesticks, according to the decorative scheme of each table.

During the afternoon, Rt. Rev. H. E. Sexton, Bishop-Coadjutor of Columbia, was welcomed and he gave a short informal talk on his impressions of Canada. He remarked on the tremendous extent of the Dominion and spoke enthusiastically of the beauty of British Columbia. He emphasized the great lack of publicity given this province in England, and said that the fact of building the new cathedral here had given more publicity to Victoria than anything else that had come under his notice in the Old Country.

The guests enjoyed two vocal solos by Miss Phyllis Deaville, who was accompanied at the piano by Miss Margaret Pringle, and two recitations by Mrs. Chappell. Miss May Phillips and members of the Junior Women's Parish Guild had charge of a table of attractive novelties.

The hostesses at the various tables were as follows: Mrs. George Miles, Mrs. Wrigglesworth and Mrs. G. H. Bissell; Miss Renny; Mrs. E. Rogers; Mrs. Slater and Mrs. E. Chrow; Miss Lettice and Mrs. E. Patterson; Mrs. A. E. Greenwood and Mrs. J. W. Speck; Mrs. T. Lewis and Mrs. J. W. Robinson.

Armistice Ball Attended By Five Hundred Guests

Victoria Branch of Amputations Association Holds Its Third Annual Dance at Empress Hotel—Decorations Are Much Admired

A beautiful poppy wreath, superimposed upon a background of flags, formed the central theme in the decorative scheme in the Crystal Ballroom of the Empress Hotel last evening, when the Victoria Branch of the Amputations Association of the Great War held its third annual ball.

There were about 500 guests present, and the dance was pronounced the most successful yet held by this organization. Through the kindness of Commander G. C. Jones, R.C.N., the ballroom had been attractively decorated with flags, men from the Naval Barracks at Esquimalt assisting the committee in arranging them on the walls.

The orchestra played an excellent dance programme, interspersing the most up-to-date New York tunes with some of the old numbers which had been favorites during the Great War.

The affair was under the distinguished patronage of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. J. W. Fordham Johnson, the Premier of British Columbia and Mrs. Pattullo, His Worship the Mayor and Mrs. Leeming, Commander G. C. Jones, R.C.N., and Mrs. Jones, Brigadier and Mrs. D. J. MacDonald and Mrs. Walter C. Nichol.

The committee responsible for the success of the ball, headed by the chairman, Mr. Jack Davey, was as follows: Music, Messrs. A. Glenday and C. H. Raymond; publicity, Mr. F. Sargent; tickets, Messrs. A. Glenday, C. H. Raymond, D. Hull and W. P. Humble; decorations, Messrs. H. Thirwell, A. Sutcliffe and E. Tucker, and reception, Messrs. A. Palmer, J. Davey, F. Wells, C. H. Raymond and C. Ockenden.

Dancing continued from 9 until 2 o'clock.

W. A. Groups Hear Address By Lady Lake

Lady (Richard) Lake, president of the diocesan board of the Woman's Auxiliary to the M.S.C.C., last evening addressed a large and interested audience of W.A. members in the guild room of the Memorial Hall.

The meeting, called by the Cathedral Senior Evening Branch W.A., included members from the Cathedral Business Women's Branch, St. Martin's, and St. Mary's Evening Branch, to whom invitations had been extended. The subject of Lady Lake's address was her recent visit to Ottawa to attend the annual Dominion board meeting.

EDUCATION PLANS
Lady Lake said that 1936 was to be made a general education year, special attention to be given to educating new members and all women interested in W.A. work. She was impressed by the detail work of the board, money not only being expended for the foreign fields, but also in innumerable small sums for church requirements and repairs, household necessities and many practical and necessary purposes covering the whole of the missionary field in Canada.

The prize for the best-written article on the work covered by the W.A. was won by a student at the Theological College in Vancouver. Five members of the Woman's Auxiliary were appointed as representatives to the General Synod, a fact which was an achievement for the women of the church. The next meeting of the Dominion board will be held in Victoria in 1936, when Mrs. R. S. Woodhouse, newly-appointed Dominion president, will preside.

GIRLS' WORK
Mrs. Wilfrid Hartley, diocesan girls' secretary, spoke of the greetings extended to the Ottawa meeting. These included messages from the United Kingdom, the House of Bishops, missionary societies, the Episcopal Church of America and from the women of the United, Presbyterian and Baptist Churches of Canada. It was hoped to establish a training course for leaders of the girls' and juniors' branches. She paid special tribute to the historical pageant held in connection with the meeting at Ottawa, giving scenes from the time of the earliest missionaries at Glastonbury, England, down to the present day.

A hearty vote of thanks to the two speakers was proposed by Miss M. R. Lawson, president of the Cathedral Evening Branch, after which refreshments were served and a social hour spent. The Bishop-Coadjutor and Mrs. H. E. Sexton were welcome guests for the evening.

Previous to Lady Lake's address, a short business meeting was held by the Cathedral Evening Branch. Arrangements are now completed for the annual sale of work to be held in conjunction with the Business Women's Branch, in the gymnasium of the Memorial Hall on Wednesday, November 20, and for which many members and friends are making and donating gifts.

The entertainment will begin at 2 o'clock, and will last for about an hour. Children of pre-movie age, between approximately four to eight years, are catered to in the programme, and it is hoped all will feel welcome.

Red Tape Hampers Administration of Land in Province

B. A. McKelvie, Addressing Y.W.C.A. Current Events Club, Points Out Some Anomalies of B.C. Land Policy—Good Discussion

NEED for the revision of the land policy of British Columbia in such a way that settlers would no longer be tempted to the disastrous experiment of farming in the hinterlands where no markets were available was pointed out by B. A. McKelvie in the thoughtful address he gave for the Y.W.C.A. Current Events Club yesterday afternoon.

He criticized the antiquated and wasteful policy of permitting settlers to pre-empt as much as 160 acres of forest land, which they could not possibly expect to clear within a lifetime; of allowing promiscuous settlement in widely-scattered parts of the province, thus compelling the Government to go to heavy expense in the building of roads, providing of schools and other heavy administrative costs, and of allowing any person, no matter how unfitted, to go on the land.

HIGHEST PRICES
"Practically everything that goes into the hinterland of British Columbia goes in at the highest prices, building up tremendous and unnecessary overhead cost," the speaker noted, adding that all over the province were little communities of half a dozen families or less for which public services had to be provided. The civil service might seem too large for a population the size of British Columbia, but it was not too large for the work that had to be done.

REVERTED LANDS
Along the lines of proposed remedial measures, that which aroused most interest was the suggestion that thousands of acres of splendid arable reverted lands within easy distance of such populous market centres as Vancouver and Victoria should be made available by the Government for settlement. In response to a question, Mr. McKelvie stated the reason these lands were not at present available was because on reversion they passed over to the finance department, and the finance department, not being in the business of buying and selling, possessed no machinery to dispose of them. This and other species of "red tape" came under criticism also.

British Columbia's land policy, it was shown, was written in 1859, in London, by Sir Andrew Clark at the request of Sir James Douglas, to meet the emergency situation arising at the time of the gold rush. That land policy, in all essentials, was the same as the one which persisted to this day. Under it, the arable land was all divided off into blocks of one square mile, each of these blocks again divided into portions of four; the Province had to solitude in the backlands which offered no markets.

INDUSTRIAL DISAPPOINTMENT

In the same way, industry suffered in British Columbia, whose manufacturers should be enjoying a larger share in the world's trade. Because of the scattered nature of the population and the smallness of the population, the three or four thousand industrial plants had not the home market, the concentrated population, necessary for the support of industry hoping to push into the larger world trade.

Since Confederation 52,000 applications for pre-emption had been granted, but only 13,000 certificates issued. This meant that 75 per cent of the pre-emptors had failed. Here was represented not only a great economic loss, but the tragedy of human disappointment. These settlers had found, after clearing their land and growing their crops, that they were without markets. To permit this kind of thing to go on was dishonest on the part of the Government. There was provision whereby men were protected from speculating in useless stock, but no provision to prevent a man from speculating with his own life. In this connection there was also mentioned the creation of colonies, of families taken off relief, at Cape Scott and Moose Heights in the Cariboo, and similar places where failure was almost inevitable, while thousands of acres of good, arable reverted lands should be released by the Government in the areas near the concentrated population and markets.

"We have prevented our legitimate growth; we have piled up debt; we have allowed any person, no matter how unfitted, to settle on the land. The Government is conducting a human lottery," it was contended. An instance of Government red-tape was recalled in their claim that they were unable to find anywhere nearer than Sayward a farm suitable for a retired Indian colonel who wished to settle on the Island, for, while there were thousands of acres of reverted lands much nearer Victoria, these could not be sold, owing to red-tape formula prohibiting the Finance Department from dealing in lands, Mr. McKelvie stated.

Mrs. B. S. Scurrah presided, and the lively interest in the question was shown in the keen discussion that followed.

Club Hears Address on Economics

Miss Margaret Clay, librarian of the Victoria Public Library, was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Victoria Liberal Women's Forum yesterday afternoon. She told of the approaching hundredth anniversary of the birth of Andrew Carnegie, the donor of the building of the local library.

A tribute was paid to the splendid work done by Dr. Helen Stewart, both in the local library and in the Fraser Valley. Miss Clay spoke feelingly of the much-loved Bobbie Wake, one of Dr. Hand's first assistants at the library and in whose memory there is a memorial in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt.

Dealing with the early history of the Victoria Public Library, the speaker told of its connection with the Mechanics' Institute and how it was later taken over by the city with quarters in the City Hall, until the present building was erected. The ideal of the library was to answer all the needs of the individual and to teach all people all things of human interest, she said.

QUESTION OF ECONOMICS

Touching on Professor Angus work in regard to his course of lectures, the speaker rated him as one of the authorities on economics in the Northwest. To the question, "What is economics?" Miss Clay replied: "Economics is the science of the production and distribution of wealth."

She gave a list of works dealing with this subject, commenting upon the particular character and value of each. Among the outstanding books were the following: "Economics: An Introduction for the General Reader," Henry Clay; "Intelligence, Man's Guide Through World Chaos," Cole; "Work, Wealth and Happiness," H. G. Wells; "Coming Struggle for Power," John Strachey; "Primer of Inflation," Earl Sparling; "Science and Social Needs," Julian Huxley; "A B C of Social Credit—A Simple Introduction to the Douglas Credit Plan," Elisabeth Sage; "Women and a Changing Civilization," Winifred Holtby; "Women and Wealth," Mary S. Branch; "Prelude to Economics," William Aylott Orton, and in the general economics section, the speaker cited Van Loon's "Story of Mankind" and his "Geography," and H. G. Wells' "Outline of History."

The members were most appreciative of Miss Clay's address. Mrs. J. E. Akins presided and welcomed several new members. It was decided to hold the next meeting on December 16, when the birthday of the Premier of Canada will be celebrated. Mrs. S. Shrimpton sang several charming solos during the afternoon. On motion of Mrs. Henderson, it was decided to form a study group, further particulars of which will be announced later.

To Be Hostess

To Convention

Great satisfaction was expressed by St. Joseph's Auxiliary, in meeting yesterday, at the results of the bazaar held this week, the total receipts from which were $284.50. Several matters of routine business were attended to. In connection with the forthcoming British Columbia medical convention, to be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, November 13, 14 and 15, the auxiliary will be hostess at a luncheon at the Empress on Thursday.

A standing vote of sympathy was passed to Mrs. T. S. MacLaughlin on the death of her husband. Mrs. F. J. Schl, the president, who was in the chair, thanked the members and the chairs, who had assisted in the success of the bazaar.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. George Goy, looked most attractive in her lovely gown of eggshell satin, fashioned with a high neckline, and very full sleeves attached to long light cuffs, and the skirt graduated to a short train. Mrs. R. Colby was matron of honor in a pretty frock of pink net tulle trimmed with blue satin, and a matching hat, and she carried a sheaf of pink chrysanthemums and carnations and maidenhair fern.

The best man was the groom's brother, Mr. Lawrence Ward.

GUESTS WELCOMED
Pink, white and green also featured the floral decorations in the hall, where the guests were welcomed on arrival by the parents of the bride and groom. Mrs. Goy wore for the occasion a gown of

But... is he crying for exercise?

His little cries go on and on... so pitiful! True—a baby must do some crying, just for exercise. But when he cries too much you're right in suspecting that something is really wrong.

The trouble may be colic due to gas, acid stomach or that ailment which affects so many babies—constipation. Be ready for these difficulties.

Give the children's laxative

Give Castoria! It belongs in every nursery just as definitely as the delicate powder, the pure soap that guards a baby's petal-soft skin.

For Castoria is made especially for children. It is gentle and safe. Free from narcotics and harsh purgatives. It acts as an intestinal stimulant—not an irritant. It will not upset a baby's stomach or cause griping pain.

For every growing child

And remember... Castoria is the ideal laxative for older children too. Give it from babyhood to 11 years—for colic due to gas, diarrhoea due to improper diet, sour stomach, flatulence and constipation. And as a first aid when a cold threatens.

Children take Castoria willingly. They like its pleasant taste.

Buy the family-size carton. It's more economical.

"Adam" to Be Subject On Sunday

"Adam and the Fallen Man" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday. The golden text is, "Lord, who shall abide in Thy tabernacle? Who shall dwell in Thy holy hill? He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart" (Psalm xv, 1-2).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And the Lord God took the man, and put him into the Garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it" (Genesis ii, 15). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The name Eden, according to Cruden, means pleasure, delight. In this text Eden stands for the mortal, material body. God could not put Mind into matter nor infinite Spirit into finite form to dress it and keep it—to make it beautiful or to cause it to live and grow."

L. C. KNOCKER to Give British-Israel Lecture Tuesday on "Marriage of Lamb"

The Victoria and District British-Israel Association will have L. C. Knocker, of Duncan, as speaker in the Foresters' Hall on Tuesday, at 8 p.m. Mr. Knocker, who is very well known as a British-Israel student and lecturer at Up-Island branches, will pay his first visit to this association on this occasion. Speaking on the subject, "The Marriage of the Lamb," he will deal with the parables, "The Marriage of the King's Son" and "The Ten Virgins," showing what these parables mean to Israel today and the urgent necessity of being ready when the time comes for their fulfillment.

History was written, according to The Canadian Baptist, when Mrs. Albert Matthews, of Toronto, was elected vice-president of the Ontario-Quebec Convention of Baptists at its recent meeting at Windsor, Ont., the first woman to be chosen to that office by the churches of the convention. It has become something of a family affair, in that her husband was for two years president of the convention.

APPEAL MADE FOR SUPPLIES

New Branch of City Relief Office Urges Support From Citizens

The city relief department yesterday made an urgent appeal for the donation of clothing of all types, furniture, stoves and any commodity that could be used for giving additional relief to the poor and destitute.

The new distribution office, which was opened early this week, has not one-tenth the supplies that are necessary to meet the demand, E. G. Snowden, relief officer, reported.

SUPPORTS APPEAL
Alderman T. W. Hawkins, chairman of the relief committee, also supplemented Mr. Snowden's appeal, pointing out to the citizens that the city is now doing the work of distributing clothing, etc., that was formerly carried on by the Friendly Help Welfare Association.

Cash donations also are necessary so that people may be given a little extra money with which to mend their broken down stoves, or repair leaks in the roof, and make other necessary repairs.

The articles most urgently needed at the present time are socks, stockings, underwear, bedding, boys' and men's trousers, women's dresses, overcoats, boots and shoes, stoves, beaters, furniture and, in fact, any wearing apparel or furnishings.

'CORPS OF VOLUNTEERS'
Mrs. W. Parry is supervisor of clothing, and already has a group of sturdy, dependable volunteers about her. The churches have been asked to name a representative on the corps of volunteers so that there will be plenty of help. The churches also are asked to co-operate in donating supplies.

Those wishing to make donations may do so by telephoning Garden 8104, or applying to 1322 Broad Street.

PREVENTING DEFORMITIES DUE TO RHEUMATISM

"It is affirmed that, in New York City, there are about 8,000 individuals in whom chronic arthritis (rheumatism) has reached the point where the joints have become permanently stiff. The prevention of these deformities is most important.

The unhealthy soil in which the seed of the disease grows, means that early prevention of rheumatism should begin before the disease has the joint are affected. The onset the symptoms of which are painful soft tissue swellings, can be successfully relieved if treatment is begun early. I am quoting Dr. Ernest Eaton,

New York City, in Clinical Medicine and Surgery.

As rheumatism may be due to a number of causes the purpose of the treatment is along the following lines:

1. Relieving the pain and getting the confidence of the patient.
2. Arresting or trying to stop the process and the progress of the disease.
3. Removing the cause—bad teeth,
bad tonsils, infected gall-bladder,
constipation, damp surroundings,

worries or other emotional disturbances, overweight, eating too much starchy food.

4. Promoting the general health.
Dr. Eaton reports a visit to the United States Navy League Hospital at League Island, Philadelphia, where there are one-hundred patients with chronic arthritis under treatment. During the first two weeks the object of the treatment is to restore the morale of confidence of the patient. The morale of the patient is restored by the following methods:

- (a) Relieving the pain with drugs.
- (b) Encouraging the patient to believe in his improvement and that the treatment he is receiving will bring about a cure.
- (c) The belief of the attendants about him in the value of the treatment.

There is no question but that in many cases but prepared without flour or bread crumbs; (d) fish except clams,
oysters and scallops; (e) eggs; (f)

proves the general health that the joint condition—circulation of good blood with removal of wastes—also improves.

The diet recommended for arthritis is (a) the cutting down on carbohydrate (starch) foods—bread,
potatoes, sugar, pastry, preserves,
marmalade; (b) the use of clear broths containing meat and vegetables; (c) the use of all kinds of meats but prepared without flour or
bread crumbs; (d) fish except clams,
oysters and scallops; (e) eggs; (f)

butter and cheese; (g) leafy vegetables; (h) fruits.

Rheumatism can cause stiffness and permanent deformity, much of which can be prevented by careful treatment.

Steady Demand for Tonnage and Space Shown in October

Month Featured Continued Improvement in the Freight and Charter Market on Pacific Coast—Outlook Good for Balance of Year

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—Continued improvement in the Pacific Coast freight and charter market was experienced during the month of October. Berth lines were running with capacity cargoes and space in many trades was at a premium. Strong inquiry for tramp vessels to load full cargoes was heard, but business was retarded due to owners' rapidly-advancing ideas of freight rates.

It is anticipated this healthy demand for tonnage and space will continue over the balance of the year and the outlook in so far as the Pacific Coast is concerned is better than it has been for many months.

A resume of the various trades in detail follows:

GRAIN

Japan-China—Some parcel business for "feed wheat" was booked from Vancouver to Japan at a freight rate of $2.90 per ton.

United Kingdom—Continued—Freight rates advanced during the month to as high as 22s. 6d. receding to something in the neighborhood of 20s. 6d. during the last few days, with the tone of the market somewhat easier.

Intercoastal—A number of vessels were taken on time charter for one way and round voyages to load full cargoes of wheat intercoastal.

LUMBER

Japan—Increased buying on the part of Japan was experienced during the month, and rates advanced to $6.75 on squares and $8.75 on logs.

China—Parcels were moving from British Columbia at rates in the neighborhood of $6.50 to $7, depending upon ports of discharge.

United Kingdom—Continued—Demand has been very good and liners have advanced rates twice during the month. Rate quoted for January-February loading is now 50s per thousand feet.

Australia—Three vessels were reported fixed during the month for lumber and logs from British Columbia to Sydney. Additional inquiry is heard for which fixtures may be momentarily expected.

Intercoastal—This business has been heavy. Rates on lumber have been advanced to $12.50 per thousand feet and space is scarce. Several extra vessels have been time chartered by regular lines to take care of increased demand.

TIME CHARTER

Time-charter inquiry of American ships, which was strong during the early part of the month, resulted in several fixtures at higher rates of hire than has been experienced for several years. Some medium-sized American tonnage secured rates ranging as high as $1.60 per deadweight ton for round voyages in the intercoastal trade with delivery and redelivery Pacific Coast.

TANKERS

A few fixtures were reported for various destinations, as to be noted from the fixture list. Inquiry from Japan has fallen off somewhat, due, no doubt, to cramped storage facilities in Japan.

SKIPPER HAS FINE CAREER

Captain T. V. Hill Served on Sailing Ships—Will Command Aorangi

On the completion of her present voyage, the Ss. Niagara is to have a new master. Captain Thomas Vivian Hill, who at present commands the ship, will transfer to the Ss. Aorangi, replacing Captain J. F. Spring-Brown, who is going ashore, while Captain W. Martin, now serving on the bridge of the Ss. Monowal, will go aboard the Niagara.

Captain Hill is one of the best-known master mariners in passenger service on the Pacific, and is rated A-1 with the traveling public as a navigator, executive and all-round good fellow.

Born in New Zealand, Captain Hill went to sea as a lad, getting his grounding in sail with the well-known Craig Line. Remaining with this line until he obtained mate's papers, he entered steam. His first ship was the Dark Royal Tar, the ship which had earned considerable notoriety before Apprentice Hill joined her, through carrying the ill-advised Australian Communist adventurers to Paraguay. The Communists landed in South America, but the scheme failed.

Union Steamship Company, of New Zealand, as fourth officer on the Ss. Manuka, and has remained with the company ever since. His first command was Ss. Komada, and he was master of the Ss. Marama when promoted to the command of the Ss. Niagara in 1927. Since that time, he has been a regular caller at Victoria.

PARthenia DUE HERE INBOUND

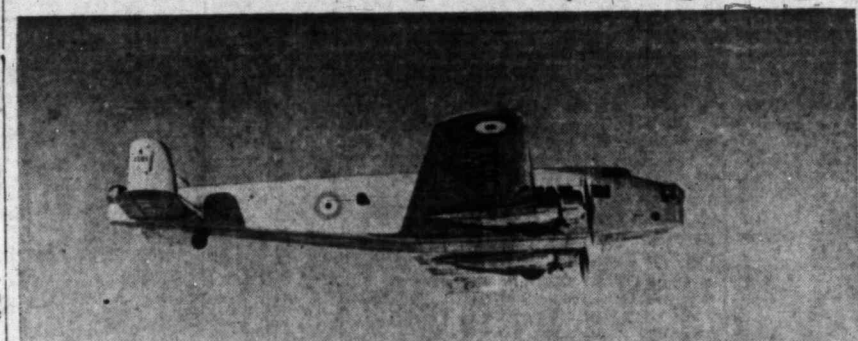

Niagara and President Jackson Sailing Today—Ships Loading Lumber

Due here late evening, the Donaldson Line freighter Ss. Parthenia, Captain A. Bankier, has evidently been slowed down some between San Francisco and Flattery and will not be arriving here until this evening. According to A. E. Shanks, of Rithet Consolidated, agents for the ship, the Parthenia will reach Race Rocks at 5 o'clock and should dock shortly before 7 o'clock.

Cargo, of which the freighter has 100 tons of general for Victoria, will be discharged immediately, and before the ship leaves for Mainland and Honolulu in Hawaii.

Coming in from Vancouver at 6 o'clock this morning, the Canadian-Australasian Ss. Niagara, Captain

It carries exceptionally heavy loads, and can fly at sustained high speed over long distances with a load of troops, spare engines and other equipment or fuel. Alternatively, it can be used as a long range bomber.

T. V. Hill, commander, will remain at Rithet Piers until 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, when she will sail for Sydney by way of Honolulu, Suva and Auckland.

Sailing for the Philippine Islands via Japan and China ports, the American Mail Line Ss. President Jackson, Captain Morris Seavey, U.S.N.R., commander, is due at Rithet Piers at 4 o'clock this afternoon from Seattle. The liner will sail at 6 o'clock for Yokohama, her first port of call on the other side of the Pacific.

Loading lumber cargo at Ogden Point Piers yesterday were the British freighters Aldington Court and Cressington Court. The ships docked yesterday morning. The Aldington Court is loading 1,250,000 feet and the Cressington Court about 350,000 feet. The cargoes are for the United Kingdom.

ENGINEER ON SURVEY SHIP

Late Andrew R. Borrowman Was Chief of Ss. Lilloet Since 1911

Andrew R. Borrowman, who was laid at rest yesterday afternoon in Royal Oak Burial Park, was an old resident of the province, coming to Victoria in 1898.

During the Yukon gold rush the late Mr. Borrowman went North and threw in his lot with the gold-seekers. He served as an engineer on a number of vessels plying on the Northern river in the early years of the present century.

Leaving the Yukon, he was a partner in the establishment of a sawmill at the entrance of Douglas Channel. When the survey ship Lilloet was being built for the Canadian Hydrographic Survey, he was employed installing the engines, and on the ship going into commission in the Spring of 1908, went aboard her as second engineer, being appointed chief in 1911. He remained aboard the Lilloet in that capacity until she was laid up three years ago, since then he had "stood by" the ship until two and one-half months ago, when he was taken ill.

BORN IN DEVONSHIRE

Mr. Borrowman was born in Devonshire seventy years ago. He possessed a first-class certificate from the British Board of Trade and was devoted to the Hydrographic Survey service. Although passing the age for retirement, so valuable were his services considered, he was kept in regular employment by the Marine Department.

In his younger days the deceased was an all-round athlete, being especially proficient in swimming and diving. He was also a confirmed hiker and would accompany the surveyors on many of their hardest climbs as a volunteer.

THOSE WHO SURVIVE

Mr. Borrowman is survived by his widow and two daughters, Mrs. H. C. Bourne, of Wollaston Street, and Miss Bessie Borrowman, at home, and one son, John Borrowman, who resides at Duncan. He was a member of United Service Lodge No. 24, A.P. and A.M., and a member of Council 6, National Association of

PILOT HERO OF EXPLOIT

Serum Carried to Dying Man in Northern Manitoba Camp

HUDSON, Ont., Nov. 8 (AP).—The most daring and heroic flight in the history of this section of Northern Ontario was written into aviation's log book tonight.

Douglas Cameron, youthful Starratt Airways pilot, was the hero of the exploit, a 100-mile flight from here to Red Lake, in the North, over lakes not frozen hard enough for a landing had an emergency arisen.

A man lay dying at Red Lake after an operation for acute appendicitis. Poison was spreading throughout his system, and serum, flown in by Cameron, was urgently needed to save his life. Cameron made the flight against the wishes of the airway officials.

ITALIANS ARE BEHIND LEADER

Victorian Was in Naples When Hostilities Started in Ethiopia

Dennis Madden has just returned from a three-month jaunt around the Mediterranean and Adriatic Seas. He visited the Italian cities of Fiume, Trieste and Naples, and Bizerta and Algiers, North Africa. Being observant and having a talking knowledge of Italian, Mr. Madden has some interesting stories to tell.

He was in Naples, he stated yesterday, when the fighting started in Ethiopia. He told of the enthusiasm with which everyone received the news. All Italy, he said, is behind Mussolini and the people believe they are fighting for economic life. They intend to go through with it now, no matter what happens.

TROOP SHIPS

Most interesting to Mr. Madden was the loading and departure of troop ships. They were continually leaving the ports he visited, while there was feverish activity in the handling of war supplies. One thing he particularly noted, there were no Italian battle craft in evidence anywhere in the Mediterranean. On the other hand, he said, there were any number of ships flying the White Ensign to be seen.

Mr. Madden crossed the Atlantic on the Conte Grande and returned to New York aboard the Roma.

PACIFIC NAVAL FLIGHTS START

Seaplanes Taking Off for Western Islands on Annual Manoeuvres

HONOLULU, Nov. 8 (AP).—Heralding a series of naval flights throughout the Pacific, forty-five naval seaplanes will leave the Pearl Harbor fleet air base at dawn tomorrow for French Frigate Shoals and other westerly islands on annual manoeuvres.

Rear-Admiral Frederick Horne, commandant of the aircraft base force, characterized the ten-day naval exercises as the first of several flights to stretch United States defences westward and northward. He said navy flying boats at Pearl Harbor eventually will journey to Wake Atoll, Pan-American Airways' Mid-Pacific base, to Guam, and during favorable seasons to Unalaska.

PLAYHOUSE James Dunn heads the cast of "The Daring Young Man." Fox Film's breezy comedy which closes today at the Playhouse Theatre. The supporting cast includes Mae Clarke, Neil Hamilton, Sidney Toler, Warren Hymer and Stanley Fields among others.

LITTLE ORPHEUM "Kid Millions," the musical film starring Eddie Cantor, will be seen at the Little Orpheum Theatre for the last time today. The final reel of this production is done entirely in color, making it one of the outstanding films of the year.

COLUMBIA Mary Astor, who has been the leading role opposite Warren William in Warner Bros. production, "The Case of the Howling Dog," which is now showing at the Columbia Theatre, can whistle as lustily and perfectly as most men. She has been able to do so since she was twelve years old. Her talent stood her in good stead in the picture, for Mary has to whistle for her German police dog in the film.

JOBS PLENTIFUL IN GOLD FIELDS

L. E. Belney, of Whitehorse, Says Yukon Dredging Companies Looking for Men

A tale of a land of opportunity where a man can easily gain a job that will pay him $4.50 a day and provide food and lodgings, was told yesterday at the Strathcona Hotel, by L. E. Belney, a soundrough who answered the call of the gold country in 1897, and since that time has left the Yukon only on few occasions.

The Yukon is that country, and during the seven months of Spring and Summer, the gold dredging companies are looking for men. These jobs, however, are mostly filled by Europeans. Mr. Belney said, as there are few native Canadians in the country.

To find work at good pay and with meals and lodgings provided in and around Whitehorse, a man need have no practical experience in mining, merely the willingness to work, the visitor explained.

Mr. Belney pointed out the main difficulty lies in the cost of transportation. He thought the various Provincial Governments of Canada, especially British Columbia, could help themselves and their unemployed by assisting men to raise the necessary transportation fees to enable them to get into the gold country. The Yukon has not experienced the depression, and, as yet, the mineral wealth of the country has only been scratched, he contended.

FEATHER IN HER HAT

by JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER XXXX

Those who watched from the distance as the plane suddenly pulled up in a ninety degree bank must have suspected a publicity stunt. But not so the two or three hundred who were near enough to see the doomed man's frantic, futile clawing at the air as he was flung from the gaping hole in the plane's fuselage who presently stood in a silent, awed circle about the broken body on the ground with in twenty feet of the entrance to the marble shaft.

Wearied after more than two hours of waiting, Ann and Mollie were in the airport manager's office when the pilot of a sight-seeing plane burst into the room and reported he had just seen a man fall over the monument from a plane about to land at the airport.

The manager hurried out. Mollie suddenly turned to Ann, "Do you suppose—Senator Runbrecker, remember? He was to fall from—"

Mollie jumped to her feet and ran outside.

Ann remembered... "Senator Runbrecker has just fallen from the top of the Washington Monument."

"Ann, look up. Selma Runbrecker was standing in the doorway. In answer to the question in Ann's eyes, she said, plaintively, 'I've been in Baltimore. I had to go somewhere, to think—and to get away from Carl. I was afraid, Ann.'"

"Then you—weren't kidnapped?"

"No, no—of course not. That was another of Carl's tricks. He took a chance on my not showing up to look father. I returned an hour ago. Rita told me about Father and Carl going to Chicago to pay seventy-five thousand dollar ransom. She didn't know if they were coming back with Lee or not... What time is Lee supposed to get here?"

Then Selma didn't know. A jump rose in Ann's throat. She said, "I think the plane's just—come in. Selma, Mollie's out there."

Lee's plane was just coming to a stop when Ann stepped outside. The men crowding about the closed cabin door, she guessed, were plainclothes detectives. The door suddenly opened, and a moment later Lee Monday dropped to the ground and moved off toward the terminal building.

Then another figure filled the cabin doorway and the detectives closed in—only to step back, disconcerted—they saw Senator Runbrecker.

Ann licked her dry lips as she watched Lee Monday the steps, head down, fists tightly clenched.

"Lee—"

He looked up, his face grim.

"Lee—was it—Carl?"

He nodded, vaguely. "He tried to throw the Senator out. We were over the monument and he had his back against the door."

"He was talking with effort. The Senator broke loose and clung to a chair. I—I pulled the ship over and—jerked the door open."

"She could hear his teeth grinding. 'I can't tell you any more now, Ann. My nerves are—pretty well shot.'"

"Yes, I know," Ann said. "I'll be at the apartment when you want me, Lee."

"They've gone inside to get a shot of whisky," Mollie said as they hurried toward the car with Charlie Briggs. The Globe reporter who had brought them to the airport. "Carl confessed the whole bloody business to the Senator, Ann. Pretended he was drunk all the way from Chicago and then when he was getting ready to throw the Senator out, he told him how he had killed his secretary and his son."

As they were leaving, another car clapped by. Charlie Briggs recognized Bill Hudson behind the wheel, but he didn't say anything.

The gruesome incredible story was told fully in The Sunday Globe next morning. Ann was amazed, when she thought about it later, how closely Bill's solution of Fuhrman's murder followed the facts. Only those little details which he could not possibly have known were lacking.

One of these concerned the afternoon the Senator sent for Carl to eject Fuhrman Wells from the Runbrecker estate... Carl had pretended to be Fuhrman's friend, had told him that he, too, had a score against the Senator and had proposed that together they could square accounts.

After he had left Mollie's apartment that night, Carl went to Fuhrman's room to explain his plan, already neatly worked out to the last small detail... He would put a dummy in the reflecting pool. At a given hour the next evening Fuhrman would call the Senator and, talking through a handkerchief, would say the Senator's secretary had been drowned in the reflecting pool and ask the Senator to come down and help the police establish positive identification. Fuhrman was then to hurry to the pool and, when the Senator and Carl arrived, point out the dummy.

From there on Carl would take charge. He would set off the concussion bomb and, when they fell into the water, would strangle the Senator with a piece of copper wire. Fuhrman agreed.

So Carl had suggested to Selma that she play a little trick on a select group of her guests and the only hitch had been that Selma, knew nothing of Fuhrman's part in it, persuaded Deane to telephone from the private wire in his father's study. Deane had tried to dial the other phone in the house but had gotten a busy signal because Fuhrman was then talking from his own room.

Carl himself had carried the books and the wire and the fictitious autobiographical sketch to Fuhrman's place when he had gone there the night before. The sketch Carl took from his pocket at an opportune moment and slipped behind a shelf of books—for the police to find. The books and the wire he "forgot."

Carl's story to Senator Runbrecker showed that he had made his plans just as carefully and well in advance for the murder of Deane. That Boston was the scene of his crime was due to the fact that Lee innocently provided an opportunity to inject a little additional mystery into the brutal business. The telegram asking Lee to pick up data for a Congressional investigation was sent by Carl, of course.

When Bill drove Carl and Deane to Cambridge and Deane went into the Harvard Yard, Carl immediately took the subway back to Boston where he arranged for the boxes supposedly containing data for the Congressional inquiry into munitions, and stumbled into the brass shop. Before he encountered Deane again—at the hotel—he had personally had his boxes delivered to the basement of the hall where Lee was to lecture and had arranged for their subsequent transfer to the airport.

When Deane reluctantly went down to the smoking room at the lecture hall, the only problem was to get him to the dark back basement hallway where the boxes were stored. Carl managed it by suddenly appearing in the smoking room, and suggesting to Deane that they slip away through a back entrance.

Less than ten minutes, Deane was dead in a sealed box and Carl was back in the auditorium.

Lee had, innocently, flown Deane's body to Washington to where the two boxes were promptly transferred from the airport to the floor of the House of Representatives. Meanwhile, supposedly searching for Deane, Carl went to the South Boston airport, called Mollie at twelve o'clock and a few minutes later was in a plane headed for Washington.

At the Capitol he used one of ten master keys (which the police subsequently learned opened the doors of eight per cent of the city's public buildings) to let himself in the ground-level door under the House Wing steps, climbed two flights of stairs to the press gallery and slid over the railing and dropped to the floor of the House. Having propped Deane's body in the Speaker's chair, he revealed the box, climbed back to the press gallery and retraced his steps.

It was necessary that Deane's body be found while he, Carl, was in Boston. He therefore unlocked the door at the main entrance to the House, wrote on the door with chalk where to look for Deane's body, locked the door again and went on down and out the way he had come in. Half an hour later Carl was aboard a plane returning to Boston.

Nothing was said in the newspapers of Selma's affair with Fuhrman. Selma herself said it had been "a perfectly idiotic infatuation" and that no one would have known anything about it if Deane hadn't gone to Fuhrman's apartment one evening and found her there...

Until then, Selma said, Deane and Fuhrman had been on the best of terms, but thereafter were "forever at each other's throats."

The custom of wearing a black band on the coat sleeve in token of mourning came from England.

"Hush... Don't talk, Bill," Ann said. Her voice was barely above a whisper. She put a hand on his sleeve as if to make sure he was really there; then she looked up into his eyes and the tears that had been welling up in her own eyes since she had first heard his voice were suddenly flowing down her cheeks.

"Good heavens!" Bill said. "You're not going to cry!"

Smiling through her tears, Ann took Bill's hand and pulled him into the narrow little kitchen—and closed the door.

"You didn't have to break up Mollie's china, you know."

What Today Means

"SCORPIO"

If November 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 12 noon until 2 p.m., from 4 to 6 p.m. and from 8 to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 10 a.m. until noon, from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 6 to 8 p.m.

This day's procrastinations are likely to be tomorrow's regrets. Many people may try to tell you how to run your affairs, although they cannot successfully attend to their own. If you are wise you will listen, not argue, and forget their would-be words of wisdom. This Saturday should be for business people, catering to the public's needs, a red letter, day, if they had anticipated what will be in popular demand. The success of social activities will depend largely on individual effort. Married and engaged couples, as well as those seeking companionship with matrimonial intent, should give their personal appearance considerable thought this day, for it can have a pleasing or irritating effect, according to whether good or poor taste is evidenced.

If a woman, and November 9 is your birthday, your clear understanding of what constitutes right and wrong make you a little too impatient with people who lack your discernment. Avoid looking for your friend's faults, if you would be happy, and seek their virtues instead. You may have the falling of being too candid. A little flattery, judiciously applied, may increase your popularity. Your being is filled with love, so you probably feel a continual urge to be mothering someone, or some pet, all the time. Through marriage, a sense of contentment is likely to be gained that might not be attained through any other medium. Short story writing, professional singing, or dancing, lecturing, or as a shop or restaurant manager or saleslady you ought to have no difficulty in earning a comfortable living.

The child born on November 9, as soon as it reaches high school age, will have to learn that an exaggerated sense of self-importance is one of the worst traits a person can possess. The wise parents will do everything in their power to rectify this fault.

If a man and November 9 is your natal day, if you can recognize your own weakness as you can those of others, they may be easily corrected, and nothing can impede your progress. As an artisan, engineer, electrician, teacher, preacher, lecturer, journalist or actor you may find the best field for your ability to realize the most satisfying rewards.

"My boy," said the business man to his son, "there are two things that are vitally necessary if you are to succeed in business."
"What are they, dad?"
"Honesty and sagacity."
"What is honesty?"
"Always—no matter what happens, nor how adversely it may affect you—always keep your word once you have given it."
"And sagacity?"
"Never give it."

Scoring Varsity's Second Touchdown

A vivid camera story of a high spot in one of the most exciting inter-collegiate games of the season, is shown here. The cameraman got it just as Webber was plunging through for Varsity's second touchdown against Queen's. A Marks-to-Connelly forward put Varsity in scoring position, and Webber made no mistake when he got the ball. The tri-color back seems about to bring the Varsity runner down inches from the line, but Webber went through his tackle like a paper hoop. A section of the capacity crowd of 20,000 is shown in the background. An instant after this photograph was taken they were on their feet, a yelling mob.

STAR WINGER FAILS TO COME TO TERMS; LEAF'S FACE AMERKS

Sharpshooting Forward Will Be Out of Line-Up Tonight When Toronto Takes Ice Against Dutton's Crew in Opening Game at Queen City—Rangers Play Tomorrow

(By the Canadian Press)

Red Dutton's rebuilt New York Americans get their second test of the young National League season tonight when they open Toronto's traditional series of home games against the powerful Maple Leafs, who may be lacking one of their main sparkplugs.

Harvey Jackson has not yet come to terms with Manager Conny Smythe and may be replaced by Flash Hollett when the teams line up for the drop of the puck at the Maple Leaf Gardens.

HARVEY JACKSON

On Sunday night Detroit's Red Wings, considerably strengthened from the squad that finished out of the play-offs in the United States section last year, will open at their home rink, Olympia, with Lester Patrick's New York Rangers defending the opposite net.

Americans met defeat and a rookie was hailed as a potential star Thursday night when young Mike Karakas replaced the injured Lorne Chabot in Chicago Black Hawks' net and held the star-spangled gentry to one goal while his own mates were scoring three.

HAVING TROUBLES

Smythe and Coach Irvin are having a heap of left-wing trouble at Toronto. In addition to the "Busher" being unable to see Smythe's offer—his case has been turned over to League President Calder—Jack Shill, his prospective replacement, turned up yesterday with an injured wrist. So Hollett may be pulled off defence to take a whirl at that position.

Otherwise Leafs will ice a powerful contender. Capable youngsters have replaced Hal Cotton, sold to Americans, and Hec Kilrea, now with Detroit. Smythe is banking a lot on a young line of Red Metz, Art Jackson and Pep Kelly, who were junior standouts a little while back.

Jack Adams' Detroit squad looks formidable. Big, crafty Marty Barry has plenty of goals on his stick and will take care of the first line centre job. He was a leading scorer with Boston for several years. Eddie Goodfellow is back on defence, headlining a powerful four there. Normie Smith is attempting a comeback in goal after being pushed to the minors by John Ross Roach last season, and the rest of the squad is as much as last year except that Herb Lewis is out with injury and Cooney Weiland has gone to Boston.

Rangers are always threatening as long as the Cook-Boucher-Cook trio is on the ice. Earl Seibert has not returned to defence—another case of salary difference—but Ching Johnson, Harold Starr and Ott Heller will be in front of Dave Kerr. The relief forwards are little changed.

MANITOBIANS FAVORED TO BEAT BRONKS

Winnipeg Gridders Selected to Upset Calgary in Western Final

WINNIPEG, Nov. 8 (AP).—Football enthusiasm, rising to new heights, was concentrated here today where Winnipeg, regarded by observers as the West's number one team, put finishing touches to their training. Tomorrow they will line up against Calgary Bronks in the final for the Western football title.

Led by Coach Bob Fritz the Manitoba champions are gunning for their fourth shot at a Dominion title—their second in two years. Calgary clubs have held the Western crown only once, in 1911, when Calgary Tigers defeated the Winnipeg Rowing Club, 13-6.

Pre-game favorites, the Tobans, nevertheless, are not underestimating the strength of Carl Cronin's invasion. Ticket sales indicate another record crowd, similar to the one that saw Winnipeg fumble Regina Roughriders, 1934 titlists, last Saturday.

WINNIPEG FAVORED

The game brings together teams coached by two of the West's most conspicuous and successful exponents of football systems. Bob Fritz, pupil of "Brink" Magurski, of Chicago Bears fame, and Carl Cronin, student of Notre Dame strategy under Knute Rockne, will direct plays from the field and bench respectively.

On the basis of recent performances the Manitobans should defeat the conquerors of Vancouver Meralomas in semi-final playdowns. The only doubtful starter on the Peg line-up is Lou Adelman. A calf muscle injury has kept the rugged centre out of workouts all week.

Minor injuries suffered by Bronks in their game with the British Columbia titlists have responded to treatment, Cronin said. He expects to field a full team paced by Charlie Harrison, his long-punting backfield star. Meanwhile, a Cronin aside that "our team is only mediocre and our backfield about the same" was taken with a grain of salt.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

Three hundred young people and more will crowd the Institute Hall, Friday evening, to witness the first basketball match of the season, when the fast High School quintette competes for friendly honors with the Y.M.I. team. Preparations are complete and over 200 students will be on hand when the whistle brings the teams together. The match starts at 8:30 o'clock, and those wishing seats should come early.

The High School's share of the gate will be utilized in getting new uniforms for the boys and also for the general fund of the school. The Y.M.I. quintette has not chosen their line-up as yet, but High School will probably be represented by the following: Clark, Berterson, Steele, E. Steele and Beasley.

While the drill of the local Rugby players held last Saturday afternoon in preparation for next Saturday's McKechnie Cup League match with Vancouver was not as well attended nor as successful as Captain Newcombe and other officials would have liked, they are not discouraged. They attribute the failure of some of the veterans to put in an appearance to the exceedingly poor weather. But there were enough on the field to make possible a useful game.

For some time lacrosse men of the Mainland have been concerned over the attitude Victoria would assume towards the professional game in 1911. It was thought that, possibly, an effort would be made to put an Island team in the struggle for the British Columbia championship against New Westminster and Vancouver.

Joe Louis Will Meet Gastanaga In Havana Ring

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP).—Negotiations were closed today for Joe Louis, sensational negro heavyweight, to meet Isidor Gastanaga, Spanish boxer, in Tropical Park, Havana, December 29, as part of the Brown Bomber's winter campaign.

Louis will leave for Cuba soon after his fight with Paulino Uzcudun, of Spain, in Madison Square Garden, December 13. The negro's match with Charley Retzlaff, Minnesota heavyweight, has been set back a week and will be held in Chicago, January 17.

One Time Cart Horse Returns Price of $163

NARRAGANSETT PARK, Pawtucket, R.I., Nov. 8 (AP).—It's common in the movies and in fiction, but not until today did a horse that once pulled a butcher-cart win a race at Narragansett Park.

The horse was Louis Suprenant's Tee Off. Last Winter the five-year-old gelding was pulling a butcher-cart in Montreal. Suprenant bought him in the Spring for a price which he stoutly insists was $7. Today Tee Off won the eighth race at Narragansett, at a mile and one-sixteenth, by a length from J. H. Logan's Sleepy Joe, and paid $163, $48.50 and $17.10.

It was the largest straight price of the meeting.

AMATEURS REFUSE TO SIGN ON LINE

VANCOUVER, Nov. 8 (AP).—Tommy Dewar, of Moose Jaw, and Alf Carr, of Trail, amateurs who came here to try out with Vancouver Lions in the Northwest Professional Hockey League, have refused to sign contracts tendered them by Manager Guy Patrick.

Dewar said he planned to play this Winter in Prince Albert, Sask., and Carr was reported to have told Patrick he had come to the Coast merely to discover how his play compared with that in the professional circuit.

Refusal of his two "prospects" to sign contracts leaves Patrick without a full roster for the opening game with Seattle here Monday. He may use Frank Sheppard, veteran who has been training with the Lions and getting in shape for a comeback after being out of hockey for a year.

Victoria City Lineup

Line-up of the Victoria City first division football team for Monday's fixture at the Athletic Park, will be as follows: Rowe, Halkett, Gibbons, Smith, Robbins, Pearce, G. Payne, J. Payne, Peers, Price, Youson, Moore and Hess.

Sound City Squad Will Meet Dominoes At High Gymnasium

Smart Club From Across Border Agrees to Fixture With Dominion Basketball Titleholders Next Week—Will Be First Real Test for Locals—Two Preliminaries Arranged

DOUG FEDEN
Arrangements were completed for the appearance of the Sound City basketball team yesterday by Secretary Frank Elliott, of the Victoria and District League.

A fair crowd saw the Dominion titleholders in their first public showing last Wednesday night, gaining a trio of senior "B" clubs, but the opposition was so tame that unselfishness and back checked like a veteran. Goldsmith and Mottishaw also worked in nice, and he is content that with his regulars and this trio the Dominoes will be a mighty hard machine to halt in the Northwest.

The Dominoes will be at full strength for the K. of C. boys. They will have Chuck Chapman and Doug Feden on the defence and Art Chapman at centre, flanked by "Red" Martin and "Porky" Andrews on the wings. Alex McKeachie, Goldsmith, Kinnear and Mottishaw will see plenty of action. Feden has been laid up with an injured hip since returning from the East, and he may not start in this game.

BOSS KNIGHTS
Pete Antonich is manager of the visiting Seattle squad and in a letter to local officials yesterday he stated that he has several members of the Italian Athletic Club on his roster, which means he will bring some of the skyscraping giants along with him for the tussle.

Two preliminary games will be held the same night. These will be announced next week by Secretary Elliott. The main attraction will get under way about 9:15.

FLIGHT... by W. D. TIPTON and J. H. MASONFILLETS

THE rounding of angular joints where two structural members meet, is a mechanical practice as old as machinery, but only in the recent era of high speed aviation engineers given it serious scientific attention.

The principal use of the fillet in airplane design is to round out the joint between the fuselage and the bottom wing of a biplane or the single wing of a low wing monoplane. Fillets at this point appeared more than five years ago. Then they consisted of strips of metal, bent to a rounded shape and screwed in place at the wing roots. Their shapes varied according to the artistic sense of the designer, and in many instances, of the cross roads mechanic who sought to dress up his second hand crate and perhaps take a few more miles off her. Usually he succeeded only in slowing her up.

When the new series of high speed transport planes came into being, wing fillets of an entirely different nature appeared on them. These fillets flared out rapidly toward the trailing edge of the wing, and actually permitted the plane to fly faster, for the wind tunnel disclosed that for the first time in the history of aviation the composite airplane had slightly less head resistance of its component parts.

MODERN STYLE TO BE USED AT FAIR

Tourist Trade Development Association to Erect Forty Booths at Armories

Plans for the Tourist Trade Development Association Winter Fair and Bazaar at the Armories from December 4 to 7, call for erection of forty booths in a modernistic style with pylons and concealed lighting.

The style will follow plans evolved by architects in 1932 after a study of Aztec buildings and will embrace, in miniature, many of the structural lines seen at the Chicago World's Fair.
